Dr. H. R. Clark, Circleville Native, Dies at 89

DEATH COMES AT BIRTHPLACE OF AGED DENTIST

Brain Hemorrhage Ends Life Of One Of Most Highly Respected Citizens

LAST RITES WEDNESDAY

First Modern Business Block Erected By Man Who Held Record In Profession

Circleville lost one of its most highly respected citizens Monday afternoon when Dr. Hartley R. Clark, a lifelong resident, died after a lengthy illness. Dr. Clark, a retired dentist who had served for 30 years as the government weather observer, would have been 90 next Oct. 1. He died in the home in which he had spent his entire life at 162 W. Union street.

His death followed serious illness since last March. Dr. Clark had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Clark was the son of Edward C. and Margaret Hartley Clark. He was married in Hillsboro in September, 1874 to Clara Barrere. Mrs. Clark died June 26, 1937.

Surviving Dr. Clark are two children, Miss Abbe Mills Clark, who resided with her father, and Harold Clark of Philadelphia.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday in the home at 4 p. m. with the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery in charge of the W. H. Albaugh Co. Knights Templar will hold services at the grave.

Pallbearers will be Harry E. Montellus, Theodore Steele, Clark Hunsicker and W. E. Hilyard. Honorary pallbearers are C. C. Chappelaer, Dr. S. D. Phillips, Loring Wittich, and Dr. E. J. Lilly.

Dr. Clark was one of Circleville's most progressive citizens. In 1893 he built the first modern business building in the city, later (Continued on Page Two)

WRONG WAY CORRIGAN AND BRIDE ARE "VERY HAPPY"

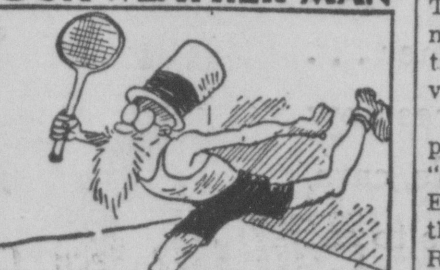

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 18—Grinning and happy, newlywed Douglas "wrong way" Corrigan and his bride, the former Miss Elizabeth Marvin, reserved the right of honeymooners to privacy today and refused to discuss their plans with newsmen.

The couple checked into the bridal suite of the Plaza hotel here last night after a flight from San Antonio, where they were married yesterday.

"We're very happy," was all either would say.

Both refused to disclose where they planned to spend the next few days, but it was believed here they probably would honeymoon somewhere in Mexico.

108 RESCUED AS JAP SHIP SINKS

Nipponese Craft, Loaded With Nitrate, Burns 1000 Miles At Sea

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18—One hundred eight persons, including passengers and crew members, were rescued from life boats of the NYK liner Bokuyo Maru early today, less than two hours after the Japanese vessel, afire, sank 1,000 miles east of Yokohama, the marine exchange reported.

The rescue was effected by the oil tanker Associated, owned by the Associated Oil Company. Radioed reports of the disaster, intercepted by the marine exchange at San Francisco, were lacking in detail.

It was known that the 8,619-ton liner left San Pedro July 2 with a passenger and crew list totaling 110. This indicated that two persons either drowned or burned to death.

At 10:47 (PST) last night, the Bokuyo Maru, almost midway between Honolulu and Yokohama, flashed an SOS, reporting a fire in its nitrate cargo. After stating the ship's position and completing the single ominous message, the vessel's radio was silent.

Shortly after midnight the rescue ship reported that all except two persons aboard the Japanese boat had been rescued and that the Bokuyo Maru had sunk, a total loss.

JURY WEIGHS FATE OF YOUNG KILLER OF TWO

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 18—A superior court jury holding the fate of Robert M. Burgunder, 22-year-old student accused of murdering two automobile salesmen near Phoenix several weeks ago, was to resume deliberations today. The jurors received the case last night, and three hours later retired without having reached a verdict.

Prosecutors asked the death penalty, calling Burgunder a "savage, cowardly killer who lured Ellis Koury and Jack Peterson to their deaths." The youth's father, Robert M. Burgunder, Sr., prominent Seattle, Wash., attorney, made an eloquent plea for his son, asking that his life be spared. He claimed his son was insane.

STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 18—The stock market continued to forge ahead at the opening today, adding 1 1/2 points to yesterday's spectacular rally of 1 to 9. Trading expanded further, as the opening rush of buying, mixed with scattered realizing, forced the high-speed ticker to run 4 minutes late almost immediately.

W. P. A. STRIKES FADING OUT IN MIDDLE WEST

Discharge Of Thousands Of Idlers Seen As Reason For About-Face

ILLINOIS FIRES 10,000

Minnesota Leaders Ready To Compromise With Governor Stassen

CHICAGO, July 18—Reports of W.P.A. officials indicated today that the strike of W.P.A. workers was slowly losing ground in the Midwest.

The discharge of thousands of strikers who had remained away from their jobs for five days or more in protest against the new relief act was believed to be the principal reason for the gradual breaking up of the strike.

Almost 10,000 strikers will have been fired in Illinois before the end of the week, it was estimated, while in Minnesota, where the major strike disturbances have occurred, half that number have been dismissed. In Minnesota, however, it appeared that a compromise offered strikers by Gov. Harold E. Stassen may end the controversy in that state.

Hoosiers At Work

Reports from other midwestern states seemed to confirm belief the strike is on the wane. In Indiana W.P.A. spokesmen said only a few workers were back on the job.

Union leaders in Minnesota said they were agreeable to accepting the Governor's suggested compromise. The governor, after conferring with W.P.A. officials and union men, proposed that all skilled W.P.A. workers either return to work under protest, or remain on strike but without molesting others on W.P.A. who desired to work. In addition, Gov. Stassen said that if the proposal had the desired effect of bringing peace to the state, he would appeal to Washington officials to reinstate without penalty all workers who had been discharged for staying off their jobs.

19-OUNCE BOY BORN AT FAIR IN FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18—No larger than an adult human hand, a 19-ounce boy was among the incubator babies at the California World's Fair today.

Born ten weeks prematurely, David, whose last name must remain unknown by request of his parents, will be one of the smallest babies in the world to survive—if he can be saved.

His head is about the size of a billiard ball. His hands are no larger than a 25-cent piece and his toes like match sticks.

Although his chances of survival are admittedly slim, doctors believe special care and feeding, together with an ample supply of oxygen which may be obtained by placing the boy in a hermetically sealed room into which oxygen is pumped from time to time, may pull him through.

David weighs one ounce less than the smallest baby ever known to have survived in the United States. The smallest of the famous Dionne quintuplets weighed 36 ounces.

WORKERS' NOISE COVERS $25,000 JEWELRY THEFT

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 18—Protected by the noise of track removal operations outside, thieves broke into a Harrisburg jewelry store last night and stole an estimated $25,000 in diamonds and watches, police reported today.

Jackson Refuses Ohio Job

Circleville Physician Says No As Governor Offers Guard Appointment

Col. Harry D. Jackson, Circleville physician, was offered the position of assistant quartermaster general of the Ohio National Guard at noon Tuesday by Gov. John W. Bricker, and refused to accept.

Col. Jackson had been mentioned for the appointment as either assistant adjutant general or assistant quartermaster general of the National Guard. Previously to receiving the call from the governor, Col. Jackson announced he would not consider either position.

Last Winter Col. Jackson was said to have been offered the position of adjutant general.

Col. Jackson said he was informed by the governor that Major General Gilson D. Light, of Toledo, commanding officer of the 37th division and the highest ranking guard officer in Ohio, had received the adjutant general appointment. Light succeeds General Emil F. Marx, of St. Marys. Attempts to force a referendum on the "ripper" bill of the Bricker administration failed Monday night. This resulted in Adjutant General Marx and his two principal aides being legislated from office. The aides of the adjutant general were Assistant Adjutant General Loucks B. Brown, of Kenton, and Assistant Quartermaster General John A. Blount, of Hillsboro. The adjutant general and his aides had been appointed to life terms by Martin L. Davey, former governor.

F. D. R. MOVES TO SAVE PROPOSAL ON NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON, July 18—In a bitter-end effort to rescue the administration's neutrality program from a pigeon-hole in congress, President Roosevelt today summoned three republican leaders of the senate and his own lieutenants to the White House for a night conference.

The conferees will convene at 8:30 o'clock EST to discuss the possibilities of action on neutrality legislation at this session—action which President Roosevelt has demanded in the fact of a vote by the senate foreign relations committee to shelve the whole explosive issue until congress meets again next January.

Representing the republican minority of the senate at the conference will be:

Minority Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon.
Assistant Minority Leader Warren Austin of Vermont.
Senator Borah, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee.

Administration leaders participating in the vital White House session will be:
Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.
Secretary of State Cordell Hull.
Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

MEXICO WILL CLING TO EXPROPRIATED OIL WELLS

LOS ANGELES, July 18—Ramon Beteta, Mexico's undersecretary of state, today declared that his government will not return expropriated oil properties.

"It is entirely impossible that the once foreign-owned oil lands ever will be returned to the companies," he said.

But he added that he believes the affected companies, once certain of that, will "soon get to an understanding with Mexico," which may agree to pay with oil the claims of the companies against the government.

BRITAIN TURNS STERNER FACE TOWARD JAPAN

Sharp Change In Policy Follows Indications Of Appeasement Plan

PARLEY SCOPE DEFINED

Tokyo Fails To Maneuver London Into Broad Eastern Discussion

LONDON, July 18—In what was regarded as a sudden stiffening of British policy toward Japan, the foreign office announced today that Britain's insistence the Tientsin dispute must be treated as a local issue remains unaltered.

Instructions to that effect, the foreign office announced, have been forwarded to British ambassador in Tokyo Sir Robert Leslie Craige.

Japan has repeatedly sought to maneuver Britain into a broad discussion of Anglo-Japanese relations in the Far East in an attempt to obtain from England definite commitments that Britain regards the Japanese military operations in China as "justified." The statement of the foreign office was considered by observers to mark a sharp change in policy following indications from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain that he might apply "appeasement" tactics in Britain's dispute with Japan to avoid a showdown in the Far East while war threatens in Europe.

Mend Home Fences

The nations of Europe promptly put the quietus on new reports of international mediation to solve the dangerous Danzig dispute today and looked to the mending of home fences in preparation for all eventualities.

There is more to it than meets the eye in the sudden resurgence of anti-espionage moves in Italy, France and England and in Britain's efforts to gain time in her discussions with Japan over the Tientsin dispute.

The fact of the matter is that no European nation—and this includes Nazi Germany—is quite ready to force any issue, either to (Continued on Page Two)

VIC DENIES HE PLANS POLITICO SURVEY OF OHIO

COLUMBUS, July 18—Ohio's senior U. S. senator, A. V. Donahy, took time out from packing his belongings in Washington today to spike recurrent reports that he is returning to his native state soon for the purpose of surveying third term sentiment for President Roosevelt.

Characteristic of Donahy was his reply to a query about the reported survey. It was short but quite to the point. He said: "I am making NO surveys for anybody."

There was little chance for misconstruing what the senator, who 10 days ago, quietly observed his sixty-sixth birthday anniversary, meant by that statement.

It effectively and for all time spiked reports emanating from Washington that "Honest Vic" would beat the political bushes when he returns home this week to see whether Ohioans are for or against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

STATE SAVES $25,000

COLUMBUS, O., July 18—Abolition of the jobs of 11 cigaret tax inspectors effective Aug. 1 will save $25,000 a year in salaries, Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt said today. The inspectors, whose duties will be taken over by sales tax inspectors, received $1,800 a year. They were ousted because they were "creating unnecessary expense and needless duplication of effort," Evatt said.

Called New York "Sinfu"

McNUTT CHOSEN TO SELL THIRD TERM FOR F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, July 18—Capitol Hill politicians today heard Paul V. McNutt, newly-named federal security administrator, has been commissioned by the New Deal to sell the American people a third term for President Roosevelt.

The silver-haired McNutt, after organizing his new federal agency, it is reported, will turn its administration over to Wayne Coy, his former secretary, and devote himself to the third term pre-convention campaign. Friends say McNutt incidentally will have a wide-open opportunity to sell himself for the second place nomination on a third term ticket, or if the president at the last moment decides to retire to private life, win the big nomination himself.

One New Dealer asserts the President personally chose McNutt for this role. Another says Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins sold the idea to Mr. Roosevelt after the President personally picked McNutt for the security post.

HELLISH PERILS ELUDE GIRL ON NEW YORK HUNT

NEW YORK, July 17—Winsome Willo Sheridan, a pretty Michigan redhead, set out last night to investigate for herself the "hellish" perils which 80-year-old Gov. Luren D. Dickinson of her state recently detected in New York but after an evening of night-clubbing appeared to have emerged not only unharmed and unscathed but somewhat unimpressed.

By way of scientific investigation, she consumed two highballs and puffed one cigaret.

She was photographed at a bar with a background of whisky bottles which may be a rude shock to Gov. Dickinson who himself appointed her "Miss Michigan Aviation" to represent the state's aircraft industry at the New York World's Fair.

Miss Sheridan says as far as drinking is concerned, she knows "when to stop." Furthermore, she smiled, many Michigan mothers and their daughters drink, and Lansing, the state capital, cannot be strictly classified as a place for a dull time. Miss Sheridan is a member of the Calvary Presbyterian church in Detroit, she added by way of emphasis.

"Governor Dickinson is really all right," she explained. "He has his opinions and, of course, I have mine."

FOUR BILLIONS URGED TO MAKE 500,000 JOBS

WASHINGTON, July 18—Enactment of the $4,000,000,000 lending program at this session of congress was urged by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today in order to provide jobs for at least half-a-million persons and to stimulate private business.

Testifying before the senate banking and currency committee, Morgenthau characterized the program as "particularly timely" in view of current international political and economic conditions.

STATE TURNS LEGAL FIRE ON ACCUSED KILLER

Former Hospital Inmate Not To Take Advantage Of Former Record

Lonnies Toles, 37-year-old Negro ex-convict, tapped one foot against the other and otherwise appeared at ease Tuesday as the State, represented by Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt and his father, Charles Gerhardt, started to wind a web of circumstantial evidence that it hopes will send the defendant to the Ohio penitentiary for life.

Toles, christened Lloyd Alonzo but called Lonnies, is charged with the second degree murder of Noble Crawford, 39, of Hocking county. Crawford's body was found last May 14 face down in about seven inches of stagnant water in the Scioto river bottoms, near the site of the municipal disposal plant. The State charges that Toles pushed Crawford to steal money that he had in his pockets.

Evidence Circumstantial

That the State's case will be comprised of circumstantial evidence was shown in questioning of prospective jurors in Monday's session. All who appeared for jury duty were asked about their feelings concerning circumstantial evidence. Toles has denied the charge of murder, declaring that he knows nothing about the stabbing.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell, the State's initial witness, related the story of the discovery of the body, the investigation started by the sheriff's office and police into the murder, Pickaway county's first in about seven years. Fissell said that officers were called at about 5:20 p. m. May 14 by Mrs. Clarence Robinson, 375 Weldon avenue, who, with her husband and several children who were hunting greens, discovered the body in the pool.

Deputy On Stand

The deputy who has been in the sheriff's office since March, 1929, presented 15 photographs, which were submitted as state's exhibits, several of them over the objections of Defense Counsel C. A. Leist, who contended that they (Continued on Page Two)

PEACE NEARS IN BLOODY HARLAN LABOR STRIFE

HARLAN, Ky., July 18—Reports that a settlement was near on differences between the United Mine Workers and the Harlan County Coal Operators' Association raised hopes today that labor-troubled Harlan soon may have peace.

Although unconfirmed, it was rumored here that representatives of the operators and the U.M.W., meeting at Knoxville, Tenn., had a federal labor conciliator had agreed on minor points of difference and were continuing their discussions hopeful of reaching a complete settlement.

At Knoxville, the negotiators said that "progress" was being made, but no definite announcement was forthcoming.

FIFTY DIE IN FLOOD

MEXICO CITY, July 18—Fifty persons were killed and 100 injured in the city of Puebla today when the San Francisco river overflowed its banks and inundated low-lying sections. The poorer areas of the town were flooded.

The river, swollen by torrential rains high in the mountains, swept away the 400-year old San Roque bridge.

WRONG WAY CORRIGAN AND BRIDE ARE "VERY HAPPY"

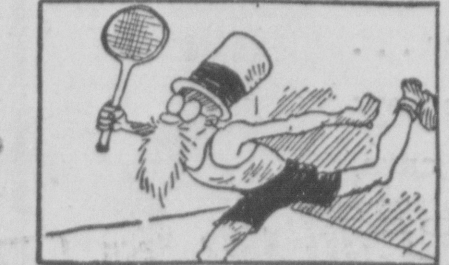

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 18—Grinning and happy, newlywed Douglas "wrong way" Corrigan and his bride, the former Miss Elizabeth Marvin, reserved the right of honeymooners to privacy today and refused to discuss their plans with newsmen.

The couple checked into the bridal suite of the Plaza hotel here last night after a flight from San Antonio, where they were married yesterday.

"We're very happy," was all either would say.

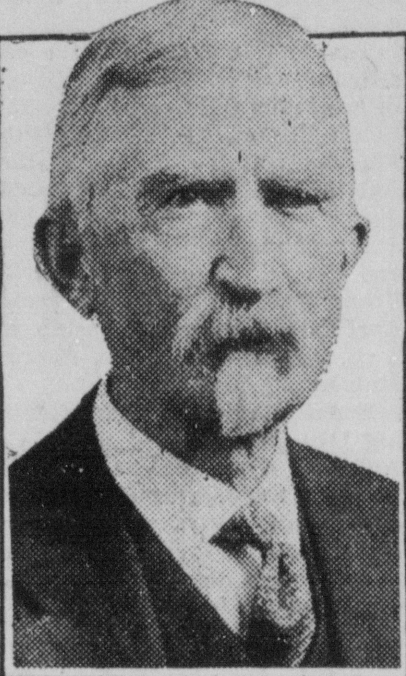

Both refused to disclose where they planned to spend the next few days, but it was believed here they probably would honeymoon somewhere in Mexico.

VIC DENIES HE PLANS POLITICO SURVEY OF OHIO

COLUMBUS, July 18—Ohio's senior U. S. senator, A. V. Donahey, took time out from packing his belongings in Washington today to spike recurrent reports that he is returning to his native state soon for the purpose of surveying third term sentiment for President Roosevelt.

Characteristic of Donahey was his reply to a query about the reported survey. It was short but quite to the point. He said: "I am making NO surveys for anybody."

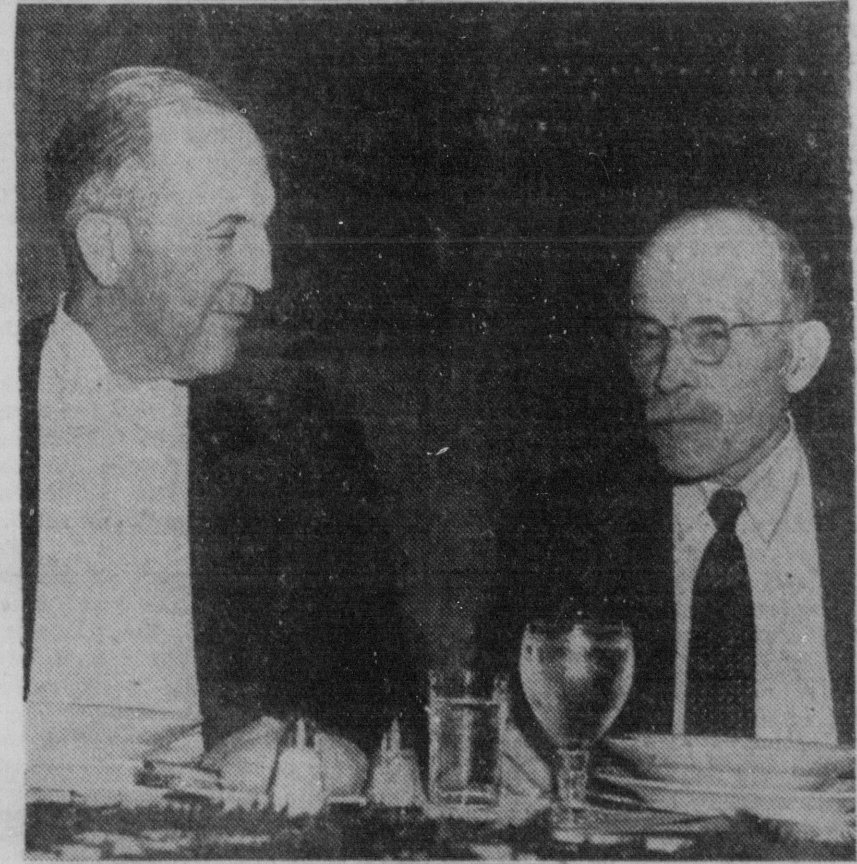

There was little chance for mis-construing what the senator, who 10 days ago, quietly observed his sixty-sixth birthday anniversary, meant by that statement.

It effectively and for all time spiked reports emanating from Washington that "Honest Vic" would beat the political bushes when he returns home this week to see whether Ohioans are for or against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

STATE SAVES $25,000

COLUMBUS, O., July 18—Abolition of the jobs of 11 cigar tax inspectors effective Aug. 1 will save $25,000 a year in salaries, Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt said today. The inspectors, whose duties will be taken over by sales tax inspectors, received $1,800 a year. They were ousted because they were "creating unnecessary expense and needless duplication of effort," Evatt said.

Called New York "Sinful"

McNUTT CHOSEN TO SELL THIRD TERM FOR F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, July 18—Capitol Hill politicians today heard Paul V. McNutt, newly-named federal security administrator, has been commissioned by the New Deal to sell the American people a third term for President Roosevelt.

The silver-haired McNutt, after organizing his new federal agency, it is reported, will turn its administration over to Wayne Coy, his former secretary, and devote himself to the third term pre-convention campaign. Friends say McNutt incidentally will have a wide-open opportunity to sell himself for the second place nomination on a third term ticket, or if the president at the last moment decides to retire to private life, win the big nomination himself.

One New Dealer asserts the President personally chose McNutt for this role. Another says Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins sold the idea to Mr. Roosevelt after the President personally picked McNutt for the security post.

Insiders say, in either event, the President is willing to trust McNutt with the third term campaign, having turned his back definitely and finally on postmaster general and democratic national chairman James A. Farley. They say the president doubts Farley's enthusiasm for a third term and point out Mr. Roosevelt never asked the postmaster general a single question about the latter's recent "political-check" tour of the nation.

MORE RAIN TO FALL FOLLOWING INCH DOWNPOUR

More rain was forecast for late Tuesday and Wednesday. Circleville was drenched with one inch of rain Monday night and Tuesday morning. The forecast for late Tuesday and Wednesday was occasional showers or thunderstorms.

Highest temperature recorded Monday afternoon was 85 degrees. Lowest for the night was 61.

125 FREIGHT CARS PASS OVER BOY AND HE LIVES

PITTSBURGH, July 18—Robert Robb, 10, of McKeesrocks, today considered himself the "luckiest boy in the world"—and with good reason.

Late yesterday the youth was struck by a "double header" freight train, knocked unconscious between the rails and then had 125 cars pass over him.

His injuries consisted of a probable fractured thigh, lacerations and abrasions on his face and body. Otherwise he was perfectly all right, physicians reported.

STATE TURNS LEGAL FIRE ON ACCUSED KILLER

SANITY NOT QUESTIONED

Former Hospital Inmate Not To Take Advantage Of Former Record

Lonnies Toles, 37-year-old Negro ex-convict, tapped one foot against the other and otherwise appeared at ease Tuesday as the State, represented by Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt and his father, Charles Gerhardt, started to wind a web of circumstantial evidence that it hopes will send the defendant to the Ohio penitentiary for life.

Toles, christened Lloyd Alonzo but called Lonnies, is charged with the second degree murder of Noble Crawford, 39, of Hocking county. Crawford's body was found last May 14 face down in about seven inches of stagnant water in the Scioto river bottoms, near the site of the municipal disposal plant. The State charges that Toles stabbed Crawford to steal money, that he had in his pockets.

Evidence Circumstantial

That the State's case will be comprised of circumstantial evidence was shown in questioning of prospective jurors in Monday's session. All who appeared for jury duty were asked about their feelings concerning circumstantial evidence. Toles has denied the charge of murder, declaring that he knows nothing about the stabbing.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell, the State's initial witness, related the story of the discovery of the body, the investigation started by the sheriff's office and police into the murder, Pickaway county's first in about seven years. Fissell said that officers were called at about 5:20 p. m. May 14 by Mrs. Clarence Robinson, 375 Weldon avenue, who, with her husband and several children who were hunting greens, discovered the body in the pool.

Deputy On Stand

The deputy who has been in the sheriff's office since March, 1929, presented 15 photographs, which were submitted as state's exhibits, several of them over the objections of Defense Counsel C. A. Leist, who contended that they (Continued on Page Two)

PEACE NEARS IN BLOODY HARLAN LABOR STRIFE

HARLAN, Ky., July 18—Reports that a settlement was near on differences between the United Mine Workers and the Harlan County Coal Operators' Association raised hopes today that labor-troubled Harlan soon may have peace.

Although unconfirmed, it was rumored here that representatives of the operators and the U.M.W., meeting at Knoxville, Tenn., with a federal labor conciliator had agreed on minor points of difference and were continuing their discussions hopeful of reaching a complete settlement.

At Knoxville, the negotiators said that "progress" was being made, but no definite announcement was forthcoming.

FIFTY DIE IN FLOOD

MEXICO CITY, July 18—Fifty persons were killed and 100 injured in the city of Puebla today when the San Francisco river overflowed its banks and inundated low-lying sections. The poorer areas of the town were flooded.

The river, swollen by torrential rains high in the mountains, swept away the 400-year old San Roque bridge.

compel a peaceful settlement or precipitate the hostilities for which the whole world is preparing.

What is transpiring at present is a greasing of machinery. Events have moved so fast in recent weeks that many domestic problems, absolutely essential of settlement before any foreign adventure is embarked upon, have been overlooked. Britain has been so busy preparing its balloon barrages and calling up recruits for conscription that the government lagged behind in its campaign to expel all undesirables and suspected espionage agents.

Nazi Agents Ousted

Word came today that fifty additional suspected Nazi agents had been marked down for expulsion from England, and this number probably will be multiplied many times in weeks to come. In France, the Surete Nationale held under lock and key four newspaper employees suspected of enemy sympathies, and police are doubtless scouring Paris and French seaports today for additional suspects.

Germany and Italy grappled with the problem of repatriating the 200,000 German and Austrian residents of the Italian Tyrol, a task so fraught with difficulties that Premier Mussolini admitted he first had to evacuate all foreigners from the region for fear that some might be spies. In their present approach to the manifold issues that will dictate war or peace upon the continent, European nations are not yet sparring nor hand-clapping. They are conditioning themselves in their various dressing rooms, making sure that muscles are supple, knuckle-bands fastened tight and that all "seconds" who might betray a last minute trust are thrown out of the arena before combat begins.

In this category of eleventh hour repatriations also lies the visit to Warsaw of Major General Sir Edmund Ironside, commander-in-chief of the British overseas forces.

Ironside at Warsaw

Ironside flew to Poland ostensibly to formulate Anglo-Polish military strategy in event of conflict. This he will do in the course of his conversations. But more important still, he will attempt to determine just at what point Poland will consider itself obliged to rise in arms against Nazi Germany, thus involving the mutual assistance pact which requires Britain to go to her aid.

Thus far, the Poles have not been too explicit in their answers to this question. Great Britain's negotiations in this regard have been carried on with the political leaders of the Polish republic. Ironside will confer with them as well, but he will be more persuasive in sounding out Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, the army leader and virtual military dictator of the country.

England must know just where Poland stands. Both France and England must make sure there are no enemies in their midst. Germany has problems that exist between them. When the fences are all mended, the issue can be met four-square—the issue of war or peace.

POLES ISSUE NEW WARNING AGAINST COUP

WARSAW, July 18 — Reports reaching Warsaw that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was slated for election to presidency of the Danzig senate as a move toward the free city's incorporation within the Reich today prompted the Polish government to issue a stern new warning to Germany.

The declaration stated that any external or internal coup in Danzig, regardless of its nature, "would evoke an appropriate response" from Poland. It was issued less than 24 hours after the arrival in Warsaw of Major General Sir Edmund Ironside, commander of British overseas forces, for Anglo-Polish military staff talks.

The warning coincided with the return to Danzig of Albert Forster, Nazi leader, after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in Munich and Berchtesgaden. Simultaneously, the Danzig senate, under chairmanship of President Arthur Greiser, discussed the situation and reportedly reaffirmed Danzig's solidarity with the Reich.

Today's new warning, apparently prompted by revived rumors of a forthcoming Nazi coup and by arrival in the free city of vast new contingents of Germans as well as military supplies, was contained in an official communique.

to be commonly known as the Friedman building. For many years he operated the Buttercup Dairy and owned a herd of fine Jerseys. He contributed largely to the strawboard, Masonic Temple, Scioto Valley Railroad, Opera House and the Presbyterian church.

Nature Lover
Dr. Clarke, small in stature, was a great lover of the outdoors. He delighted to recall his hunting and fishing experiences in Pickaway county many years ago. He was a keen observer and was called on many times to settle points of history about the city.

He served the Masonic lodge several years as master, and was a past Eminent Commander of Scioto Commandery. In the Presbyterian church he served as a Sunday school teacher, trustee, chorister and elder. He was on the building committee for the present church.

Until his last illness, Dr. Clarke made regular trips from his home to the Scioto river to take measurements of the stream for the weather bureau. His predictions on flood conditions were seldom wrong.

The mode for hoop skirts was in style when Dr. Clarke obtained his first job at the Dodridge General Store as an errand boy. In his early youth he obtained pocket money from trapping along Lake Darling, then located on the east side of the city.

Held Many Records

Dr. Clarke held many records, both local and national. He was the oldest living graduate of Circleville high school, a member of the class of 1866. He joined the Pickaway lodge of Masons 65 years ago and was the oldest Mason in Pickaway county. Dr. Clarke was a member of the Scioto Commandery Knights Templar. He was the oldest living member of the Presbyterian church in Circleville.

He remodeled and constructed 11 homes and buildings in the city and erected the first business building without a step from the sidewalk to the first floor level. Dr. Clarke was the owner of Circleville's first dairy to use milk bottles. He was an extensive truck farmer for many years.

Dr. Clarke, after graduating from high school, became a student in the dental office of his father, Dr. E. C. Clarke. He was graduated in 1871 from the Philadelphia College of Dental Surgery, now Temple University. He was the oldest living graduate. After returning to Circleville he continued in partnership with his father until 1877 when he opened an office of his own. He was a member of several dental societies, being active many years in the famed Rehwinkel dental society.

BUYS REFRIGERATOR
County commissioners purchased an electric refrigerator for the sheriff's residence, Monday, from Carl F. Seitz on a bid of $350 with a trade-in refrigerator allowance of $89.95. Seven bids were submitted. The commissioners will receive bids Aug. 14 on two new stokers for the courthouse heating plant.

POULTRY TOUR DATE SET FOR LAST OF MONTH

Pickaway county producers and consumers of poultry and poultry products will have a special opportunity to attend the World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland.

Willis Liston, chairman of the Pickaway county tour committee for the congress, announced Tuesday that a one-day tour has been set for Monday, July 31. The tour will leave Columbus at 6:20 a. m. and return that evening. It is believed between 25 and 50 persons of Pickaway county will take the tour.

This tour, sponsored by the 4-H clubs of the county and the county's World Poultry Congress Committee, has been arranged at a low rate by cooperating with Fairfield, Franklin and Holmes counties. Tickets may be obtained from 4-H club members or from the county extension agent anytime before July 25.

had nothing to do with the trial. Those to which Mr. Leist futilely objected were taken of various stab wounds in Mr. Crawford's body. The protested photos were snapped by Deputy Fissell in the Rinehart funeral home. Other photos showing the pool and the body in it were not opposed. Judge Meeker Terwilliger decided that all the pictures should be admitted.

Other exhibits admitted during the session were a blade broken from a knife, the handle of the knife, a pencil, notebook and a hat, all of which were found in the pool. The knife blade was found protruding from Crawford's body. During cross examination the defense attorney asked Deputy Fissell concerning other arrests made during the evening in addition to that of Toles. The deputy said that John Ross and Marshall Shisler were arrested, and Special Patrolman Turney Ross, who testified later, said that Jesse Eby was arrested, too. All three were seen with Mr. Crawford at about 10 a. m. on the day that the stabbing took place.

Woman Testifies
Other witnesses during the session included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robinson, who testified concerning discovery of the body and notification of officers. Patrolman George Green, who was on desk duty at the police headquarters the night that Toles was arrested, said that the arresting officers, Charles Munaw and Turney Ross, found $4 and some change in Toles' clothing. The Negro was booked at police headquarters at 6:45 p. m., Green said, about 90 minutes after the Hocking countian's body was found.

Stanley Melvin, apprentice employed by M. S. Rinehart, funeral director, was the last witness before the noon recess. He provided information concerning removal of the body from the pool.

Mr. Leist said Tuesday that he did not know whether Toles would be put on the stand in his own defense. "I cannot answer that question now," he said.

Santly Not Doubtful

The question of the defendant's

sanity will not be brought into the case, Toles' lawyer declared. The Negro was released from the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane last February after he had served more than 10 years on a robbery charge. Lima authorities said that Toles "had been restored to reason." He was termed a hero by Lima authorities in a New Year's Day break that saw several desperate criminals flee the institution. Toles was a party to the escape, hospital officials said, but after breaking away ran in front of the institution to spread the alarm. All the fugitives have been arrested or slain, including Frank Haines, reputed leader of the break, who has been indicted in Chicago on a murder charge after a shooting in a Chicago roadhouse.

Mr. Leist pointed out that should Toles be convicted and sent to the penitentiary that authorities here will determine whether he is sane or insane. "Toles doesn't want to go back to Lima," his counsel said.

Opening Statements
Opposing counsel, in opening statements Monday afternoon, outlined their respective cases. Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt declared that the state would show that Toles was with Crawford a short time before the knife-slashed body was found partly submerged in a pool of water near the Scioto river.

"We have five witnesses," the prosecutor said, "who will testify that Toles and Crawford were seen walking in Prairie street toward the Chesapeake & Ohio underpass that leads to the lowlands where Crawford was found. A short time later Toles was seen walking back alone from the railroad district, his trousers wet and rolled to his knees. His shoes were wet. Mud found on his clothes after he was apprehended was similar to mud in the pool where the body was found. Stains found on a blue polo shirt he was wearing were bloodstains, and his pants, also, were stained with human blood."

Accused Of Killing

"Toles went up town and had his shoes cleaned up, but they, too, were wet when he was arrested between 6:30 and 7 o'clock. We expect to prove beyond any doubt that Toles is guilty of Mr. Crawford's murder," the prosecutor closed.

Mr. Leist explained the second degree indictment returned against Toles, stating that he had been arraigned and had pleaded innocent. "He stands before you on a plea of not guilty. We will show that Crawford came to Circleville the night before his death and associated with many different persons. He drank with several of them. Some of the people with whom he spent his time were arrested by the authorities and questioned about the murder. During that day (May 14) Toles had been drinking considerably. He had borrowed some money at different places, and was intoxicated. During the afternoon he went to a barn in the southwestern part of the city and tried to sleep off his drunk.

Wet Shoes Explained

"He had bought a pair of new shoes," the attorney said, "and his feet hurt. He waded in a watering trough to cool them off. 'The state's only evidence,' Mr. Leist said, 'is presumptive and circumstantial.'"

The opening statements were offered after the jury, comprised of 10 men and two women, had visited the scene of the murder. The jurors were accompanied by sheriff's deputies and attorneys and were shown several locations which are expected to be discussed during the trial. They included a south end beer parlor, several buildings and sheds in which Toles had been living since his return from the Lima state hospital shortly after the first of the year.

Jury Selected

Toles accompanied the jurors and authorities to the murder scene.

The jury, completed after each side had exercised three challenges, includes: George Lumpe and Frank Palm, Circleville; George Hitler, Washington township; Harry Barthelmas, Deer Creek township; Sarah Pugsley and Ralph Walters, Jackson township; Clyde Brinker and V. H. Prushing, Ashville; Frank Collett, Wayne township; Earl Liston, Monroe township; and Z. L. Smith and Edna Pherson, Muhlenberg township.

Excused by challenges after being tentatively seated were Carl Andrews, Bryan Downs and Albert Tarbill, excused by the prosecution and Viola Strawser, Winifred Stawser and James Moffitt, challenged by the defendant's attorney.

COMISKEY SERIOUSLY ILL

Oxygen was being administered to the patient, Dr. Russell Oldfield announced. The physician has been in constant attendance at Comiskey's bedside since 6 a. m. yesterday. Dr. Oldfield said today: "There is some hope."

Comiskey inherited the $1,500,000 estate of his father Charles Comiskey, the "Old Roman," on the latter's death here October 26, 1931.

Britain has been so busy preparing its balloon barrages and calling up recruits for conscription that the government lagged behind in its campaign to expel all undesirable and suspected espionage agents.

Nazi Agents Ousted

Word came today that fifty additional suspected Nazi agents had been marked down for expulsion from England, and this number probably will be multiplied many times in weeks to come. In France, the Surete Nationale held under lock and key four newspaper employees suspected of enemy sympathies, and police are doubtless scouring Paris and French seaports today for additional suspects.

Germany and Italy grappled with the problem of repatriating the 200,000 German and Austrian residents of the Italian Tyrol, a task so fraught with difficulties that Premier Mussolini admitted he first had to evacuate all foreigners from the region for fear that some of them might be spies. In their present approach to the manifold issues that will dictate war or peace upon the continent, European nations are not yet sparring nor hand-clapping. They are conditioning themselves in their various dressing rooms, making sure that muscles are supple, knuckle-bands fastened tight and that all "seconds" who might betray a last minute trust are thrown out of the arena before combat begins.

In this category of eleventh hour repatriations also lies the visit to Warsaw of Major General Sir Edmund Ironside, commander-in-chief of the British overseas forces.

Ironside flew to Poland ostensibly to formulate Anglo-Polish military strategy in event of conflict. This he will do in the course of his conversations. But more important still, he will attempt to determine just at what point Poland will consider itself obliged to rise in arms against Nazi Germany, thus invoking the mutual assistance pact which requires Britain to go to her aid.

Thus far, the Poles have not been too explicit in their answers to this question. Great Britain's negotiations in this regard have been carried on with the political leaders of the Polish republic. Ironside will confer with them as well, but he will be more persuasive in sounding out Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, the army leader and virtual military dictator of the country.

England must know just where Poland stands. Both France and England must make sure there are no enemies in their midst. Germany has problems that exist between them. When the fences are all mended, the issue can be met four-square—the issue of war or peace.

POLES ISSUE NEW WARNING AGAINST COUP

WARSAW, July 18 — Reports reaching Warsaw that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was slated for election to presidency of the Danzig senate as a move toward the free city's incorporation within the Reich today prompted the Polish government to issue a stern new warning to Germany.

The declaration stated that any external or internal coup in Danzig, regardless of its nature, "would evoke an appropriate response" from Poland. It was issued less than 24 hours after the arrival in Warsaw of Major General Sir Edmund Ironside, commander of British overseas forces, for Anglo-Polish military staff talks.

The warning coincided with the return to Danzig of Albert Forster, Nazi leader, after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in Munich and Berchtesgaden.

Simultaneously, the Danzig senate, under chairmanship of President Arthur Greiser, discussed the situation and reportedly reaffirmed Danzig's solidarity with the Reich.

Today's new warning, apparently prompted by revived rumors of a forthcoming Nazi coup and by arrival in the free city of vast new contingents of Germans as well as military supplies, was contained in an official communique.

to be commonly known as the Friedman building. For many years he operated the Buttercup Dairy and owned a herd of fine Jerseys. He contributed largely to the strawboard, Masonic Temple, Scioto Valley Railroad, Opera House and the Presbyterian church.

Nature Lover

Dr. Clarke, small in stature, was a great lover of the outdoors. He delighted to recall his hunting and fishing experiences in Pickaway county many years ago. He was a keen observer and was called on many times to settle points of history about the city.

He served the Masonic lodge several years as master, and was a past Eminent Commander of Scioto Commandery. In the Presbyterian church he served as a Sunday school teacher, trustee, chorister and elder. He was on the building committee for the present church.

Until his last illness, Dr. Clarke made regular trips from his home to the Scioto river to take measurements of the stream for the weather bureau. His predictions on flood conditions were seldom wrong.

The mode for hoop skirts was in style when Dr. Clarke obtained his first job at the Dodridge General Store as an errand boy. In his early youth he obtained pocket money from trapping along Lake Darling, then located on the east side of the city.

Held Many Records

Dr. Clarke held many records, both local and national. He was the oldest living graduate of Circleville high school, a member of the class of 1886. He joined the Pickaway lodge of Masons 65 years ago and was the oldest Mason in Pickaway county. Dr. Clarke was a member of the Scioto Commandery Knights Templar. He was the oldest living member of the Presbyterian church in Circleville.

He remodeled and constructed 11 homes and buildings in the city and erected the first business building without a step from the sidewalk to the first floor level. Dr. Clarke was the owner of Circleville's first dairy to use milk bottles. He was an extensive truck farmer for many years.

Dr. Clarke, after graduating from high school, became a student in the dental office of his father, Dr. E. C. Clarke. He was graduated in 1871 from the Philadelphia College of Dental Surgery, now Temple University. He was the oldest living graduate. After returning to Circleville he continued in partnership with his father until 1877 when he opened an office of his own. He was a member of several dental societies, being active many years in the famed Rehwinkel dental society.

BUYS REFRIGERATOR

County commissioners purchased an electric refrigerator for the sheriff's residence, Monday, from Carl F. Seitz on a bid of $350 with a trade-in refrigerator allowance of $89.95. Seven bids were submitted.

The commissioners will receive bids Aug. 14 on two new stokers for the courthouse heating plant.

JOHN LEWIS LEECH

DURING deportation hearing of Harry Bridges, west coast C.I.O. leader, at San Francisco, defense counsel charged that John Lewis Leech, above, star government witness, previously had admitted being offered bribes to brief the Australian-born union chief a Communist. An affidavit purportedly signed by Leech was introduced stating that the witness was offered $10,000 and $2,000 by a government officer and a civic organization to testify Bridges was a "Red."

POULTRY TOUR DATE SET FOR LAST OF MONTH

Pickaway county producers and consumers of poultry and poultry products will have a special opportunity to attend the World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland.

Willis Liston, chairman of the Pickaway county tours committee for the congress, announced Tuesday that a one-day tour has been set for Monday, July 31. The tour will leave Columbus at 6:20 a. m. and return that evening. It is believed between 25 and 50 persons of Pickaway county will take the tour.

This tour, sponsored by the 4-H clubs of the county and the county's World Poultry Congress Committee, has been arranged at a low rate by cooperating with Fairfield, Franklin and Holmes counties. Tickets may be obtained from 4-H club members or from the county extension agent any time before July 25.

WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Stella Mae Platt, 20, of Monroe township, filed an action in Common Pleas court Tuesday by her father Glenn Keller, seeking a divorce from Donald Platt, of Cleveland. The petition says they were married Dec. 2, 1935 in Greenup, Ky. It charges neglect of duty. Mrs. Platt asks alimony and that her former name of Keller be restored.

STATE TURNS LEGAL FIRE ON ACCUSED KILLER

had nothing to do with the trial. Those to which Mr. Leist futilely objected were taken of various stab wounds in Mr. Crawford's body. The protested photos were snapped by Deputy Fissell in the Rinehart funeral home. Other photos showing the pool and the body in it were not opposed. Judge Meeker Terwilliger decided that all the pictures should be admitted.

Other exhibits admitted during the session were a blade broken from a knife, the handle of the knife, a pencil, notebook and a hat, all of which were found in the pool. The knife blade was found protruding from Crawford's body.

During cross examination the defense attorney asked Deputy Fissell concerning other arrests made during the evening in addition to that of Toles. The deputy said that John Ross and Marshall Shisler were arrested, and Special Patrolman Turney Ross, who testified later, said that Jesse Eby was arrested, too. All three were seen with Mr. Crawford at about 10 a. m. on the day that the stabbing took place.

Woman Testifies

Other witnesses during the session included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robinson, who testified concerning discovery of the body and notification of officers. Patrolman George Green, who was on desk duty at the police headquarters the night that Toles was arrested, said that the arresting officers, Charles Mumaw and Turney Ross, found $4 and some change in Toles' clothing. The Negro was booked at police headquarters at 6:45 p. m., Green said, about 90 minutes after the Hocking countian's body was found.

Stanley Melvin, apprentice employed by M. S. Rinehart, funeral director, was the last witness before the noon recess. He provided information concerning removal of the body from the pool.

Mr. Leist said Tuesday that he did not know whether Toles would be put on the stand in his own defense. "I cannot answer that question now," he said.

Sanity Not Doubted
The question of the defendant's

sanity will not be brought into the case, Toles' lawyer declared. The Negro was released from the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane last February after he had served more than 10 years on a robbery charge. Lima authorities said that Toles "had been restored to reason." He was termed a hero by Lima authorities in a New Year's Day break that saw several desperate criminals flee the institution. Toles was a party to the escape, hospital officials said, but after breaking away ran in front of the institution to spread the alarm. All the fugitives have been arrested or slain, including Frank Haines, reputed leader of the break, who has been indicted in Chicago on a murder charge after a shooting in a Chicago roadhouse.

Mr. Leist pointed out that should Toles be convicted and sent to the penitentiary that authorities here will determine whether he is sane or insane. "Toles doesn't want to go back to Lima," his counsel said.

Opening Statements

Opposing counsel, in opening statements Monday afternoon, outlined their respective cases. Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt declared that the state would show that Toles was with Crawford a short time before the knife-slash body was found partly submerged in a pool of water near the Scioto river.

"We have five witnesses," the prosecutor said, "who will testify that Toles and Crawford were seen walking in Prairie street toward the Chesapeake & Ohio underpass that leads to the lowlands where Crawford was found. A short time later Toles was seen walking back alone from the railroad district, his trousers wet and rolled to his knees. His shoes were wet. Mud found on his clothes after he was apprehended was similar to mud in the pool where the body was found. Stains found on a blue polo shirt he was wearing were bloodstains, and his pants, also, were stained with human blood."

Accused Of Killing

"Toles went up town and had his shoes cleaned up, but they, too, were wet when he was arrested between 6:30 and 7 o'clock. We expect to prove beyond any doubt that Toles is guilty of Mr. Crawford's murder," the prosecutor closed.

Mr. Leist explained the second degree indictment returned against Toles, stating that he had been arraigned and had pleaded innocent. "He stands before you on a plea of not guilty. We will show that Crawford came to Circleville the night before his death and associated with many different persons. He drank with several of them. Some of the people with whom he spent his time were arrested by the authorities and questioned about the murder. During that day (May 14) Toles had been drinking considerably. He had borrowed some money at different places, and was intoxicated. During the afternoon he went to a barn in the southwestern part of the city and tried to sleep off his drunk.

Wet Shoes Explained

"He had bought a pair of new shoes," the attorney said, "and his feet hurt. He waded in a watering trough to cool them off."

"The state's only evidence," Mr. Leist said, "is presumptive and circumstantial."

The opening statements were offered after the jury, comprised of 10 men and two women, had visited the scene of the murder. The jurors were accompanied by sheriff's deputies and attorneys and were shown several locations which are expected to be discussed during the trial. They included a southern beer parlor, several buildings and sheds in which Toles had been living since his return from the Lima state hospital shortly after the first of the year.

Toles accompanied the jurors and authorities to the murder scene.

The jury, completed after each side had exercised three challenges, includes: George Lumpe and Frank Palm, Circleville; George Hitler, Washington township; Harry Barthelmas, Deer creek township; Sarah Pugsley and Ralph Walters, Jackson township; Clyde Brinker and V. H. Prushing, Ashville; Frank Collett, Wayne township; Earl Liston, Monroe township, and Z. L. Smith and Edna Pherson, Muhlenberg township.

Excused by challenges after being tentatively seated were Carl Andrews, Bryan Downs and Albert Tarbill, excused by the prosecution and Viola Strawser, Winifred Stawser and James Moffitt, challenged by the defendant's attorney.

COMISKEY SERIOUSLY ILL

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., July 18—J. Louis Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox ball club, lay critically ill today at his Eagle River Summer home.

Oxygen was being administered to the patient, Dr. Russell Oldfield announced. The physician has been in constant attendance at Comiskey's bedside since 6 a. m. yesterday. Dr. Oldfield said today:

"There is some hope."

Comiskey inherited the $150,000 estate of his father Charles Comiskey, the "Old Roman," on the latter's death here October 26, 1931.

All the vines, trained or dwarfed fruit trees and plants on walls should be watched and pruned or trained often and carefully instead of severely at long intervals. A little pinching back now is often all they need.

EDUCATORS TO WEIGH PROBLEM OF TRANSFER

Opposition To Consolidation Will Be Considered Wednesday Night

PROTEST LIST GROWS

Nineteen Names Are Added To Remonstrance And Five Are Withdrawn

A special meeting of the county board of education will be held Wednesday night for consideration of the difficulties arising from the proposed transfer of Muhlenberg township school district to the Monroe district.

A remonstrance against the proposed transfer was filed with the board of education at its last meeting on July 5. This remonstrance carried 178 signatures. Nineteen more names have been added. Five persons have requested their names be removed and one signature has been challenged.

Two groups attended the last meeting of the board. One favored the remonstrance, the other contended it did not contain sufficient signatures and did not represent a majority of the resident electors as required by law.

The group protesting the remonstrance asked to make a poll of the township to determine the number of qualified electors and submit the figures to the board at the Wednesday night meeting.

The Muhlenberg district was transferred to Monroe after the high school charter of Darbyville school was annulled due to small enrollment. The transfer recommended the Darbyville school continue to operate as a grade school.

FARMERS MAKE 73 CENT LOANS ON WHEAT CROP

The Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation association has executed 10 loans to date on the 1939 wheat crop. The loan rate for Pickaway county is 73 cents a bushel on No. 2 wheat.

Farmers who have filed for loans have made their applications on warehouse receipts. Wheat stored on farms must be in the bin for at least 30 days before a sample can be taken and a wheat loan obtained.

Employees of the association expect many more loans to be filed within the next week as farmers receive warehouse receipts.

SPANISH LOAN

State Department officials are not anxious to have it advertised but they are still pulling wires to give General Franco a large Export-Import Bank credit, despite the fact that revolution once again has reared its head in Spain.

Not only are Franco forces quarreling among themselves, but Republicans have begun sporadic fighting in some parts of Spain. When the situation was reversed, and a Republican Government was attempting to suppress revolt, the career boys did everything in their power to help the Fascists.

Today they are consistent at least to the extent of still wanting to help the Fascists. For they know that a loan to Franco from the United States would bring tremendous prestige to Franco, and probably discourage Republican revolt. Perhaps this is why the career boys are so eager. Cooler heads in the State Department, however, such as Judge Walton Moore, are concerned over the fact that under the law, a U. S. loan to Spain must be approved by the Spanish legislature. Franco is not worrying about legislators. And the career boys aren't either.

SEWING PALS

The Sewing Pals 4-H club of Monroe township met recently at the home of Norma Snyder. In the business meeting plans were discussed for a camping trip to be held July 20, 21 and 22 at Gold Cliff. A large tent will be used for sleeping quarters and the girls will take turns cooking. After the meeting was adjourned by Betty Neff, the president, the program committee, consisting of Norma Snyder and the president, conducted a swimming party. This was followed by refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake. The program committee for the next meeting includes Mary Dick and Helen Grover. The next meeting will be held Aug. 4 at the home of Betty Neff.

WILLING WORKERS

The fourth meeting of the Wayne Willing Workers clothing club was held Friday in the school building. The roll call was answered by each member naming her favorite flower. A picnic was planned for July 19. Each member is to have six different seams and a set-in pocket made by the next meeting of the club to be held July 28 in the school. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by a committee appointed by the president.

JACKSON NATURE CLUB

William Reid, E. Union street, was the guest of the Jackson township 4-H Nature club at the fifth meeting held last Friday in the school building. The members and their guests enjoyed a field trip along Darby creek. Mr. Reid pointed out many interesting facts concerning birds, insects and plants. Following the field trip, membership became effective July 1.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

Any set on which the "Dead End" Kids are working is usually far back on the Warner Bros. lot. Perhaps the studio executives want to keep as far away as possible from the headaches those boys bring to directors and other players, and so reserve the most distant sound stages for their pictures. Perhaps it is just accidental. In any event, when the boys work it is usually a long way from the front office.

On one particular day recently, it was well that the set of "Hell's Kitchen," the Warner Bros. picture now playing at the Grand theatre, was far removed from both street and executives. For the boys were singing—the "Dead Enders" and some thirty or forty others. They were singing "Auld Lang Syne," in voices that were loud if not musical, in the final sequence of their new picture.

A treble note could be detected occasionally, in spite of the way Martin Freed, arranger, pounded the piano to drown it out. Changing voices have a way of going soprano under emotional stress—even motion picture emotions.

The scene was to be the farewell banquet to Fields, who had violated his parole, according to the story, to help the boys and was scheduled to return for an eight-year term in prison.

The banquet was at the dessert stage (real, not prop, ice cream for all), when Fields asks them to sing his favorite song—"Auld Lang Syne." At first the boys are ashamed to sing, then as Fields begs them to, they start to give out.

The prop men joined in the song. So did the director, the cameramen and the boom boy. There is something contagious about "Auld Lang Syne." It is difficult not to sing it when others are. It was also easy to understand why the "Hell's Kitchen" set was so far back on the lot at the Warner Studio.

WALLACE BUYS FURNACE PLANT FROM HASWELLS

Purchase of the Haswell furnace plant building and a large lot at the rear of W. Main street was announced Tuesday by W. E. Wallace, proprietor of Wallace bakery.

The property was purchased from the Haswell estate. The lot extends from the rear of the Grand-Girard drug store to the rear of the Wallace bakery building. It is 44 1/2 by 176 feet in size. The building on the property is 44 1/2 by 76 feet and includes three stories.

Mr. Wallace plans extensive improvements on the building. It will be used for wrapping bakery products, storage of supplies and a garage for 10 trucks.

The Wallace bakery has enjoyed a steadily increasing business and additional space was needed. The bakery is one of the most modern plants of its size in the state.

EDUCATORS TO WEIGH PROBLEM OF TRANSFER

Opposition To Consolidation Will Be Considered Wednesday Night

PROTEST LIST GROWS

Nineteen Names Are Added To Remonstrance And Five Are Withdrawn

A special meeting of the county board of education will be held Wednesday night for consideration of the difficulties arising from the proposed transfer of Muhlenberg township school district to the Monroe district.

A remonstrance against the proposed transfer was filed with the board of education at its last meeting on July 5. This remonstrance carried 178 signatures. Nineteen more names have been added. Five persons have requested their names be removed and one signature has been challenged.

Two groups attended the last meeting of the board. One favored the remonstrance, the other contended it did not contain sufficient signatures and did not represent a majority of the resident electors as required by law.

The group protesting the remonstrance asked to make a poll of the township to determine the number of qualified electors and submit the figures to the board at the Wednesday night meeting.

The Muhlenberg district was transferred to Monroe after the high school charter of Darbyville school was annulled due to small enrollment. The transfer recommended the Darbyville school continue to operate as a grade school.

FARMERS MAKE 73 CENT LOANS ON WHEAT CROP

The Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation association has executed 10 loans to date on the 1939 wheat crop. The loan rate for Pickaway county is 73 cents a bushel on No. 2 wheat.

Farmers who have filed for loans have made their applications on warehouse receipts. Wheat stored on farms must be in the bin for at least 30 days before a sample can be taken and a wheat loan obtained.

Employees of the association expect many more loans to be filed within the next week as farmers receive warehouse receipts.

are urging this. If the President does return by rail he will pay another visit to the Fort Peck Dam in Montana, which he inspected two years ago while it was under construction.

Present tentative plans call for only one stop en route to the San Francisco Fair, to visit White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre, convalescing in North Carolina. There is every likelihood, however, that this will be changed and several stops added to the schedule.

SPANISH LOAN

State Department officials are not anxious to have it advertised but they are still pulling wires to give General Franco a large Export-Import Bank credit, despite the fact that revolution once again has reared its head in Spain.

Not only are Franco forces quarreling among themselves, but Republicans have begun sporadic fighting in some parts of Spain.

When the situation was reversed, and a Republican Government was attempting to suppress revolt, the career boys did everything in their power to help the Fascists. Today they are consistent at least to the extent of still wanting to help the Fascists. For they know that a loan to Franco from the United States would bring tremendous prestige to Franco, and probably discourage Republican revolt. Perhaps this is why the career boys are so eager.

Cooler heads in the State Department, however, such as Judge Walton Moore, are concerned over the fact that under the law, a U. S. loan to Spain must be approved by the Spanish legislature. Franco is not worrying about legislators. And the career boys aren't either.

BAD TO WORSE

The President got a big kick out of a story told him the other day on Tom Corcoran, his favorite brain truster. The man who told him was Elmer Andrews, Wage-Hour Administrator, who had just returned from a trip to Atlanta to hear the complaints of Southern industrialists against the Wage-Hour Act.

Andrews made the trip by air in company with L. W. "Chip" Robert, secretary of the Southeast

LESSON OF THE SQUALUS

THE mystery and power of the sea, and the drama of every relationship between it and man, are illustrated again in the tragedy of the submarine Squalus and the salvage operations which are now going on. After seven weeks of the most difficult, painstaking and arduous labor, the navy men in charge nearly suffered another disaster the other day. "Pure luck and skillful handling of their craft," said the Associated Press, "saved twenty navy men" who were working in whaleboats close to the side of the Falcon, the salvage ship.

The Squalus had been raised about 85 feet from the bottom and the hoisting operations seemed to observers "within inches of success" when suddenly the submarine reared up on its tail like a fish, some of the pontoons shot to the surface and the submarine swiftly sank again to the bottom. There was plenty of commotion in the water for a few moments. Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, director of the work, reported:

"Both pontoons came to the surface followed by the bow. Forward sling carried away and bow sank. One sling aft carried away and two lower pontoons on sling surfaced. Stern sank with remaining pontoons possibly in damaged condition. Think Squalus on even keel on bottom. Two chains still remain under stern."

Thus, laconically, the story was told. It is fresh proof of the miracle that was wrought last May in the rescue of 33 of the men aboard. Also showing the stuff the Navy is made of, is the fact that new lifting work began almost as soon as the Squalus had settled to the bottom again.

WHAT ABOUT PHILIPPINES?

THE Philippine problem, which most Americans thought was disposed of a few years ago when a definite date was set for independence of the islands, is camping on the government's doorstep again. It looks very different since Japan went on the warpath, with the evident intention of gobbling up all eastern Asia and then pushing ahead into the south Pacific and Indian Oceans.

Paul V. McNutt, High Commissioner to the Philippines, now urges permanent retention of them "for the salvation of the islands, the larger interests of America and the peace of the Pacific." As long as our flag flies there, he says, there will be peaceful progress in the Far East. If our flag comes down, he thinks there will be trouble there for a generation.

Most of the Filipinos seem to agree with him. President Manuel Quezon himself has been hedging lately on independence. Our government and public still seem undecided.

Sometimes words are symbols for thought, and sometimes, as f'instance right here, they're substitutes for it.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning with a lot of zip, almost a day of Autumn. Away to the post after a brief session with coffee and the morning prints, finding little of news except that representatives in the congress voted themselves additional help, at $1,500 a year, to answer letters. Well, if they do that, then I suggest that we write them frequently, when we object to anything and when we approve. Too few of us do that even though those men down there are supposed to be only what their titles imply, representatives. They are supposed to do what the majority of us wish them to do, and they would do that, too, if we just speak our piece.

Learned of the death of Dr. Clarke, that grand old man who since his childhood has been as much a part of Circleville as any of its recognized institutions. A long life and a life well spent. We will miss him much.

Here comes Fred Wittich with a copy of the High School Circle printed in March of 1907. It was Everts High School then. On the cover page a picture of the circle with the old courthouse as it was in 1836. The copy was dedicated to G. F. Wittich. Evan Reichelderfer was editor in chief and his assistants were Alice Lowe, Lillian Wells, Lloyd Jones, Beulah Kindler, Ada Boyle, Aaron Ahn, Marguerite Gerhart, Marion Lutz, Stanley Grand-Girard, Lincoln Delaplane, Alice Cheeseman, Mary Naumann, Eleanor Groce, Huldah Newton, Forest Deeds, Harel Lilly, and the faculty committee was composed of Ella C. Drum, Estella Wolf and T. Otto Williams.

Among the graduates named

were Alva Redman, Sadie Brunner, Mrs. George Heffner, Ella Noonan, Mrs. Gill Jacob, Emma Mader, Barton Walters, Mrs. Earl Lutz, Arthur Wilder, Mrs. Benjamin Throop, Anna Dresbach, Anna Albaugh, Mrs. Harvey Heffner, Mrs. Thompson Wright, Howard Moore, Roy Winstead, C. Bina Crum, Mrs. Walter Toole, Frank Hamilton, Mrs. Ed Graham, Mrs. Frank Smith, Minnie McCrum, Maud Howard.

Memories there, a lot of them, for those who were youngsters about that time. And every one of them could tell the present day school kid that he is having the most pleasant experiences of his lifetime, but the kid would not believe it. They all wish to "grow up." Seems to be an advantage in that in the eyes of childhood. And only we oldsters know the disadvantages.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

MUNDELEIN SOOTHED F. D. R.

WASHINGTON — Newspapermen who jammed the President's office just after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had turned down his neutrality bill were surprised and disappointed at his calmness over this severe setback.

They had come to the press conference in large numbers expecting to hear another sizzling "horse-and-buggy" fusillade. Instead, Roosevelt appeared unruffled, good natured and with little to say on neutrality.

But what the newsmen did not know was that Roosevelt was neither calm nor good humored. Actually he was fighting mad, and if it hadn't been for Cardinal Mundelein, the reporters probably would have got the box-car headlines they had anticipated.

The Cardinal had a luncheon engagement with the President at 1 p. m. Word of the committee's action reached the President shortly before noon, and he hit the ceiling. By the time Mundelein was ushered in, Roosevelt was seething with indignation.

With deep emotion, the President told his old friend that he was not going to take the blow lying down, that he intended to fight back and would go on the air at once to take the issue directly to the people.

CARDINAL SOOTHES PRESIDENT

His Eminence is a warm supporter of the Administration's foreign policy; also he is a wise and far-sighted counselor. At first, he did not disagree with the President and his hot-tempered plans. He merely said nothing. He talked about the short-sightedness of the committee and concurred with the President that the morning's work had been a big victory for Hitler and the Nazi-Fascist axis.

For two hours the gentle, understanding prelate quietly kept the conversation rolling while the President blew off steam and cooled off.

When the Cardinal finally rose to go it was a little after 3 o'clock and the President had regained his usual cheery composure. An hour later when the reporters trooped in, Roosevelt gave no outward sign of being disturbed. He chatted and joked as if nothing untoward had happened.

However, two questions had been "planted" with several newsmen to enable him to air his views on a power question and a spending issue. And he muffed both cues. His mind was not on the press conference.

FISHIN' FAN

Barring change in his plans, the President will make a one-day stopover in Oregon in order to try out its famed fishing waters during his West Coast junket.

He may also return East from his Alaska visit by way of the Panama Canal. This part of his itinerary is still unsettled, will depend on conditions abroad and whether he decides to do some speaking en route home. Some political observers

DIET AND HEALTH

Swimming: Best of All Exercises

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SWIMMING is the best all-round exercise. Its advantages are, first, that it employs all the muscles of the body; second, that the water keeps the temperature down so that the excessive heat generated by exercise is absorbed.

Among its disadvantages is the fact that it is an acquired activity. Most animals swim naturally. Man also would swim naturally if he remained a quadruped—that is, if he were content to swim dog-fashion.

But in our artificial civilization we have to learn even an efficient method of this kind of animal instinct.

I am happy to see that Dr. Dudley Reed, in his book Keep Fit and Like It (Published by Whittlesey House, New York), includes swimming in the group of exercises that can be done by a person of 40 to 50.

Three Important Things Swimming is important also because it inculcates the three things that are so important in life—relaxation, timing and rhythm. For those who take it hard, it may be very exhausting. But when an easy stroke is learned, it becomes an exercise that can be carried on for a long time without exhaustion.

They say that even the most habitual slicer at golf will hook if a tree is on his left. The same principle applies to swimming when you begin to learn it—the harder you try, the less successful you are.

Your nervous system and your muscular system must be trained before you can become a graceful swimmer. When you do acquire the knack, you can get an abundance of healthful exercise from the sport.

The great obstacle to learning the technique of swimming—fear of the water—can be overcome by what appears to be a cruel practice, namely, throwing a child into water over its head. I can remember the very spot on Lake Huron where my older cousin carried me out and dumped me in to sink or swim. After the fear of water is conquered, everything else in the act of swimming shall be added unto you.

In all other sports, or forms of exercise, you have to support your own body weight. In swimming the water supports the body. This, combined with the heat absorption that the water accomplishes, makes it possible to prolong swimming beyond any other form of exercise.

This may, of course, be a danger: encouraging the swimmer to carry his exercise beyond the point of endurance.

The real disadvantage of swimming is the possibility of infection of the nose and ears, or the eyes. Even pure water is an irritant to the mucous membrane of the nose and surface of the eyes. Any swimmer will come out of the water with the eyes more or less blood-shot. The nasal mucous membrane is more susceptible to catching cold after irritation by water. Sea water is less irritating than fresh water. Unquestionably a number of infections are picked up in even the best managed swimming pool.

But all around, swimming is among the best of sports and the most healthy of exercises. Even if you are not an expert, you will reap rich rewards from any kind of performance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Mrs. P. H.: "I have been thinking of taking a little girl for the summer. Her parents are very poor and cannot get for her the foods she should have. She has T.B. of the bone, has worn a cast for eight months, and is now able to walk a little without it. I have three small children of my own and I want to be quite sure that I would not endanger their health in any way."

Answer: You go right ahead and take her. That is not the kind of tuberculosis that is contagious from human to human (only tuberculosis of the lungs from adult to child is contagious). And will you also allow me to take off my hat to you?

M.: "Are there any other causes for reflexes in the eyes besides those listed: Bad tonsils, sinus infections, bad teeth, excessive drinking and smoking?"

Answer: None of the conditions you name interfere with the normal eye reflexes. The causes of abnormal eye reflexes is the use of morphine or atropine, locomotor ataxia, paresis, iritis or brain tumor.

M. S.: "I would appreciate any information you can give me regarding leprosy. I would like to know the cause and if there is a possible cure."

Answer: Leprosy is an infectious disease of a very chronic nature, but contrary to general belief, is not very contagious. It affects mostly the skin of the face around the nose. Sometimes the hands and feet are affected, producing a nodular swelling. In another form the nerves are involved. Treatment is by chaulmoogra oil, which mitigates the symptoms very considerably.

L. J. R.: "Does the smoking process kill the trichinae in bologna sausage, mettwurst or brunschweiger, without further preparation at home?"

Answer: No.

CHAPTER FORTY

SARAH ANNE had two sensations as Bob Kennedy shook her by her shoulders. One was a sense of exquisite pleasure at his mastery. The other was sharp anger at his insolence. Anger won. She managed to break away.

But she didn't say: "I hate you." He would expect that. He would want her to lose her temper. So she would be cool.

"That was to celebrate what?" she asked.

"It was to give you a little sense. You are not risking your neck again!"

"You're my manager?" She laughed a little.

He looked at her for a moment before answering. "I wish I was. Come on, I want to talk to you."

He took her by the arm, holding her in a firm grasp, and started to walk toward a soft drink pavilion. When they were seated, he said: "What makes you think you must do this, Sarah Anne?"

"I have a living to make."

He shook his head. "You think it's because you want to go somewhere. It isn't true. It's because you want to escape from somewhere?"

"Doesn't it all add up to the same thing?"

She could not tell him that she was accepting life as best she could, meeting its demands, and going on. She did not let him know that she had decided, in the sky that very day, that this was not her way to fight. One thing she had learned—and that was to keep her own confidence and independence.

"I won't ask you to stop jumping," Bob was saying. "Not just yet, anyway. You better get it out of your system. But if you must do this fool thing, you are going to be protected. I'm getting you an automatic parachute."

She shook her head. He hated her, but he was conscious of her, which was probably the most she ever could expect.

"No, Bob. I can't afford one," she said. "I'm helping Corrinne at school and we actually are getting a new car for the paragonette. They are much more important."

She did not mean to sound virtuous. A moment later she was sorry she had spoken. So she added: "And I want so many things—a silver fox cape and a new wrist watch and a lot of coats and—I don't want an automatic parachute."

Bob's face softened. "Silly little Sarah Anne. You don't really care about them, you know."

(Of course I don't, she said, but she kept the words in her heart. I just want a hut with something simmering in a kettle over a fire and a lamp for night and the man I love. I just want you. Not as you are now. As you might have been.)

Bob opened his wallet and took out a crumpled piece of paper. She recognized the picture as the one the southern paper had used that day. This was a story from her home town paper.

"Any girl who could make a gang of kids want her that much could have fun in a calico dress," Bob was saying. "You can't be a calicoed jumper, Sarah Anne. You aren't the type."

People were talking, laughing, crowding around in the small pavilion. The band still played its raucous tunes and the announcer's voice heralded somebody who would do loop the loops and tail-spins.

Sarah Anne didn't answer Bob. She would let him talk, on and on and on. And nothing he said could ever matter because he believed that she had written those letters.

"Anyway, I'm presenting you with an automatic parachute. I'm wiring for it at once. You'll wear it and also one of the others."

"But I can't accept it."

"I won't ask you to stop jumping," Bob was saying.

"Let's pretend it's your birthday. Or Christmas."

He leaned forward, forgetting the crowds and the merry-go-round callopie that was joining the general conflagration of sound.

"Remember what I asked you once—to be friends when all of that frenzy was done?"

"I remember."

"Well?" His eyes were waiting. She shook her head. "No, Bob. I'd rather not."

He looked stunned, as though she had slapped him, and a dull red color crept under his collar. Even in that moment she was aware of the glances which were coming his way—glances from women who admired his gray-blue herringbone suit, the soft blue shirt that gave its color to his eyes, his lean, firm profile.

"You hate me so?"

Her eyes did not falter. "No, I don't hate you at all. That's why."

"Then Sarah Anne, my sweet—"

She was not smiling. Her face was grave and tired. "That's why, Bob. She stood up and held out her hand. "Goodbye. She even smiled then."

She walked swiftly across the ground, not knowing that he stood in the door of the pavilion, watching her.

She felt old and weary and defeated. Bob did not understand her at all if he felt that she could so easily forget his words that night at the lodge. He must think she was the kind of person who would really take such things in her stride.

She decided to have a tray in her room instead of eating dinner in the small dining room. She took a warm bath, brushed her dark hair and swirled it around her head, put on fresh yellow crepe pajamas and stepped into moccasins.

The dinner was appetizing, with a compote of iced fruit as an introduction. An old-fashioned sweet potato pie and browned fried chicken followed. There was a green salad, an ice and a pot of hot coffee.

She ate slowly, sent the tray downstairs, and tried to read. She was scanning words which held no meaning when a knock came at her door. When she answered it, a bell-boy stood there.

"You are wanted on the telephone, Miss Melton."

"What is it, honey?" she asked softly.

"He wrote me a note—a horrid one—and said he hoped he'd never see me as long as he lived and a lot of things. And I don't know why! He went off to visit someone before his college opens. He said the sooner he forgot me the happier he'd be. But why? Why?"

"Have you called him or written him?"

"Both. He doesn't answer the phone—sends word he isn't there, and he returned my letter. So I'm through with him! Forever!"

"Honey, we've just got a minute to talk, but stay where you are. Don't leave school. I'll be through with this shindig next week and I'll come right away. Promise, won't you?"

"I promise. I guess I just—needed sympathy."

Sarah Anne replaced the receiver. Life was a see-saw. She and Corrinne were taking turns going up and down.

She left the booth to find Bob Kennedy coming down the hallway. He had changed back to a khaki flying suit.

"Shoving off," he said calmly, as though they never had talked much about anything more important than the weather or the price of spinach. "Happy landings."

LESSON OF THE SQUALUS

THE mystery and power of the sea, and the drama of every relationship between it and man, are illustrated again in the tragedy of the submarine Squalus and the salvage operations which are now going on. After seven weeks of the most difficult, painstaking and arduous labor, the navy men in charge nearly suffered another disaster the other day. "Pure luck and skillful handling of their craft," said the Associated Press, "saved twenty navy men" who were working in whaleboats close to the side of the Falcon, the salvage ship.

The Squalus had been raised about 85 feet from the bottom and the hoisting operations seemed to observers "within inches of success" when suddenly the submarine reared up on its tail like a fish, some of the pontoons shot to the surface and the submarine swiftly sank again to the bottom. There was plenty of commotion in the water for a few moments. Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, director of the work, reported:

"Both pontoons came to the surface followed by the bow. Forward sling carried away and bow sank. One sling aft carried away and two lower pontoons on sling surfaced. Stern sank with remaining pontoons possibly in damaged condition. Think Squalus on even keel on bottom. Two chains still remain under stern."

Thus, laconically, the story was told. It is fresh proof of the miracle that was wrought last May in the rescue of 33 of the men aboard. Also showing the stuff the Navy is made of, is the fact that new lifting work began almost as soon as the Squalus had settled to the bottom again.

WHAT ABOUT PHILIPPINES?

THE Philippine problem, which most Americans thought was disposed of a few years ago when a definite date was set for independence of the islands, is camping on the government's doorstep again. It looks very different since Japan went on the warpath, with the evident intention of gobbling up all eastern Asia and then pushing ahead into the south Pacific and Indian Oceans.

Paul V. McNutt, High Commissioner to the Philippines, now urges permanent retention of them "for the salvation of the islands, the larger interests of America and the peace of the Pacific." As long as our flag flies there, he says, there will be peaceful progress in the Far East. If our flag comes down, he thinks there will be trouble there for a generation.

Most of the Filipinos seem to agree with him. President Manuel Quezon himself has been hedging lately on independence. Our government and public still seem undecided.

Sometimes words are symbols for thought, and sometimes, as f'instance right here, they're substitutes for it.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning with a lot of zip, almost a day of Autumn. Away to the post after a brief session with coffee and the morning prints, finding little of news except that representatives in the congress voted themselves additional help, at $1,500 a year, to answer letters. Well, if they do that, then I suggest that we write them frequently, when we object to anything and when we approve. Too few of us do that even though those men down there are supposed to be only what their titles imply, representatives. They are supposed to do what the majority of us wish them to do, and they will do that, too, if we just speak our piece.

Learned of the death of Dr. Clarke, that grand old man who since his childhood has been as much a part of Circleville as any Evan Reichelderfer was editor in chief and his assistants were Alice Lowe, Lillian Wells, Lloyd Jones, Beulah Kinder, Ada Boyle, Aaron Ahn, Marguerite Gerhart, Marion Lutz, Stanley Grand-Girard, Lincoln Delaplane, Alice Cheeseman, Mary Naumann, Eleanor Groce, Huldah Newton, Forest Deeds, Harel Lilly, and the faculty committee was composed of Ella C. Drum, Estella Wolf and T. Otto Williams.

Among the graduates named

were Alva Redman, Sadie Brunner, Mrs. George Heffner, Ella Noonan, Mrs. Gill Jacob, Emma Mader, Barton Walters, Mrs. Earl Lutz, Arthur Wilder, Mrs. Benjamin Throop, Anna Dresbach, Anna Albaugh, Mrs. Harvey Heffner, Mrs. Thompson Wright, Howard Moore, Roy Winstead, C. Memories there, a lot of them, for those who were youngsters about that time. And every one of them could tell the present day school kid that he is having the most pleasant experiences of his lifetime, but the kid would not believe it. They all wish to "grow up." Seems to be an advantage in that in the eyes of childhood. And only we oldsters know the disadvantages.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

MUNDELEIN SOOTHED F. D. R.

WASHINGTON — Newspapermen who jammed the President's office just after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had turned down his neutrality bill were surprised and disappointed at his calmness over this severe setback.

They had come to the press conference in large numbers expecting to hear another sizzling "horse-and-buggy" fusillade. Instead, Roosevelt appeared unruffled, good natured and with little to say on neutrality.

But what the newsmen did not know was that Roosevelt was neither calm nor good humored. Actually he was fighting mad, and if it hadn't been for Cardinal Mundelein, the reporters probably would have got the box-car headlines they had anticipated.

The Cardinal had a luncheon engagement with the President at 1 p. m. Word of the committee's action reached the President shortly before noon, and he hit the ceiling. By the time Mundelein was ushered in, Roosevelt was seething with indignation.

With deep emotion, the President told his old friend that he was not going to take the blow lying down, that he intended to fight back and would go on the air at once to take the issue directly to the people.

CARDINAL SOOTHES PRESIDENT

His Eminence is a warm supporter of the Administration's foreign policy; also he is a wise and far-sighted counselor. At first, he did not disagree with the President and his hot-tempered plans. He merely said nothing. He talked about the short-sightedness of the committee and concurred with the President that the morning's work had been a big victory for Hitler and the Nazi-Fascist axis.

For two hours the gentle, understanding prelate quietly kept the conversation rolling while the President blew off steam and cooled off.

When the Cardinal finally rose to go it was a little after 3 o'clock and the President had regained his usual cheery composure. An hour later when the reporters trooped in, Roosevelt gave no outward sign of being disturbed. He chatted and joked as if nothing untoward had happened.

However, two questions had been "planted" with several newsmen to enable him to air his views on a power question and a spending issue. And he muffed both cues. His mind was not on the press conference.

FISHIN' FAN

Barring change in his plans, the President will make a one-day stopover in Oregon in order to try out its famed fishing waters during his West Coast junket.

He may also return East from his Alaska visit by way of the Panama Canal. This part of his itinerary is still unsettled, will depend on conditions abroad and whether he decides to do some speaking en route home. Some political observers

Swimming: Best of All Exercises

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SWIMMING is the best all-round exercise. Its advantages are, first, that it employs all the muscles of the body; second, that the water keeps the temperature down so that the excessive heat generated by exercise is absorbed.

Among its disadvantages is the fact that it is an acquired activity. Most animals swim naturally. Man also would swim naturally if he remained a quadruped—that is, if he were content to swim dog-fashion. But in our artificial civilization we have to learn even an efficient method of this oldest of animal instincts.

I am happy to see that Dr. Dudley Reed, in his book Keep Fit and Like It (Published by Whittlesey House, New York), includes swimming in the group of exercises that can be done by a person of 40 to 50.

Three Important Things Swimming is important also because it inculcates the three things that are so important in life—relaxation, timing and rhythm. For those who take it hard, it may be very exhausting. But when an easy stroke is learned, it becomes an exercise that can be carried on for a long time without exhaustion.

They say that even the most habitual slicer at golf will book if a tree is on his left. The same principle applies to swimming when you begin to learn it—the harder you try, the less successful you are. Your nervous system and your muscular system must be trained before you can become a graceful swimmer.

When you do acquire the knack, you can get an abundance of healthful exercise from the sport. The great obstacle to learning the technique of swimming—fear of the water—can be overcome by what appears to be a cruel practice, namely, throwing a child into water over its head. I can remember the very spot on Lake Huron where my older cousin carried me out and dumped me in to sink or swim. After the fear of water is conquered, everything else in the act of swimming shall be added unto you.

In all other sports, or forms of exercise, you have to support your own body weight. In swimming the water supports the body. This, combined with the heat absorption that the water accomplishes, makes it possible to prolong swimming beyond any other form of exercise. This may, of course, be a danger: encouraging the swimmer to carry his exercise beyond the point of endurance.

The real disadvantage of swimming is the possibility of infection of the nose and ears, or the eyes. Even pure water is an irritant to the mucous membrane of the nose.

She decided to have a tray in her room instead of eating dinner in the small dining room. She took a warm bath, brushed her dark hair and swirled it around her head, put on fresh yellow crepe pajamas and stepped into moccasins.

The dinner was appetizing, with a comote of iced fruit as an introduction. An old-fashioned sweet potato pie and browned fried chicken followed. There was a green salad, an ice and a pot of hot coffee.

She ate slowly, sent the tray downstairs, and tried to read. She was scanning words which held no meaning when a knock came at her door. When she answered it, a bell-boy stood there.

"You are wanted on the telephone, Miss Melton."

"But I can't accept it."

"But I can't accept it."

"But I can't accept it."

She picked up a yellow negligee that matched the pajamas, and went down the hall to the booth which held the phone. The hotel did not have room service.

She supposed Judy would be calling to say that she was staying out late.

But it was the long-distance operator who spoke: "Miss Melton? Will you hold the line, please?" Then, to a remote party: "Ready with your call."

"Sarah Anne?" Such a faint, far-off murmur.

"Corinne, where are you?"

"Back at school. It started day before yesterday. But I'm not staying. I want to join you."

"Not staying? But why not?"

"Don't you like it? There are other schools. Of course you may leave."

"No, Sally Anne, I isn't that. Everyone's grand. I just don't think I can stand it. It's—it's Bob Ransom."

"Oh-h-h!" Odd what a man could do to a woman. Odd and unfair, too. "What is it, honey?" she asked softly.

ed the wedding.

Planting Surface-root Ferns

To add beauty and interest ferns
can be used in odd shady corners
of the garden where flowers will not bloom. They will also make cool green covers on the shady side
of the house or garage.

As shown in the illustration certain types of ferns have a slender branching rootstock which creeps
at or just below the soil surface.

She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. N. E. Gaston, who will spend the next two months visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Dennis, and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Gaston has resided in Burbank for the last four years.

Miss Jeanette Ward of Charleston, W. Va., has returned home after a two week visit with friends and relatives in Pickaway county.

In planting, do not cover the root-
stocks with several inches of soil,
but place them, as shown, in their natural position with the soil barely covering the rootstocks so that the roots are not smothered. Be sure not to let the rootstock dry out, however.

Common Polypody, New York
Fern, Resurrection Fern, American Maidenhair, Narrowleaf
Chainfern, Narrow Beechfern,
Narrowleaf Spleenwort, Massachusetts Fern, Winged Beechfern,
Oakfern and Berry Bladderfern.

Both the Polypody and the Resurrection Fern should be lifted in mats to prevent tearing and drying of the rootlets.

Add Flavor To Summer Food Fare

HERE ARE some more recipes
of dishes devised to add flavor to Summer fare.

The first offering is a new cold soup that should score a hit at luncheon. Cold Pineapple Soup is made with two cups water, one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt, one-half lemon rind, four tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca and two cups pineapple juice. Boil water with sugar, salt and lemon rind;
add tapioca and cook until clear.
Take out rind, mix pineapple juice
with tapioca, and stir well. Place in glass or earthen jar and let cool. To serve, pour into soup plates or bouillon cups and garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream with powdered cinnamon
on top.

Cheese potatoes is a good luncheon dish. Peel a pound of potatoes cut into long strips and fry a golden brown in hot fat. Drain strips on paper and pile in a baking dish. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese over seasoning and chopped parsley. Cook in a hot oven about four minutes.
Serve immediately.

Honey Drops go beautifully with a tall cold drink. This spicy butter is made with one cup butter, one cup honey, three and three-fourths cups flour, one-half teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice and two level teaspoons soda. Cook honey and butter together for about a minute. Cool.
Sift flour, spices and soda together. Add flour to make a soft dough. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Ham in Coffee

Ham boiled in coffee should delight those who are forever seeking exotic or bizarre foods. Soak
a piece of ham in cold water overnight. Make enough coffee to half cover the ham and boil the ham in it until cooked. Remove ham from liquor. Make a paste
with a little milk, brown sugar
and mustard, and spread this over the top of the ham. Bake in the oven until brown.

For another unusual dish soak
some large prunes overnight. Next day cook gently. When cold, remove pits and fill cavity with chutney and walnut meats. Roll
a thin piece of bacon around each prune, fasten with a toothpick
and bake in hot oven about eight minutes. Serve on triangles of fried bread garnished with watercress.

Baked Fish in tomato cups is made with six tomatoes, one and one-half cups flaked fish, one-half cup bread crumbs, tablespoon minced onion, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons melted fat, one-half teaspoon salt,
one-eighth teaspoon pepper and
one tablespoon chopped parsley.
Cut a thin slice from the top of each tomato and scoop out the

Vacationists Write Interesting Letters Of Journey Through Central America

Another interesting letter has been received from Circinnati vacationists, this one telling of interesting places visited on a southern cruise. The Misses Margaret and Dorothy Adkins and Miss Lucille Neuding of E. Main street have collaborated in telling
of the things which have appealed to them most during their travels.

Leaving Circinnati Wednesday,
June 28, they went directly to
New York City, and opened their delightful letter with a short account of their days at the fair.

"Before sailing on the S. S. Tal-amanca, we spent several days in
New York City. On our first night, we viewed the city from the Rockefeller Center observation tower. The next day we visited the fair. The high point of the fair was the General Motors' Show, depicting the world of tomorrow. We also enjoyed the Billy Rose Aquacade. One evening we were royally entertained
at the Hotel New Yorker by Mrs.
Max Friedman's father and brother,
Benjamin Lichenstein and Leo
Lichenstein.

"On Saturday, July 1, we sailed from New York Harbor on the
S. S. Talamanca. After two and one half days, we docked at Havana. By special invitation, we viewed the approach to the lovely harbor from the Captain's Bridge,
seeing the old fort, Morro Castle,
the lovely Malecon Drive and several battleships and cruisers from the United States fleet. That evening we motored sixty-five miles to see Matanzas Bay, comparable in beauty to the Bay of Naples. The next morning we spent seeing the sights in and around Havana. We swam at the famous Havana Beach in the afternoon and, after a six-hour delay,
were off to Costa Rica on July 5.
"This little-known state has more points of interest than any of us had anticipated. We docked

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, July 18

SUDDEN and thrilling events mark this day, according to the ruling directions. While there are auguries for a definite headway in affairs, unforeseen circumstances may have devastating effect unless manipulated with sound judgment, shrewdness and watchfulness against pitfalls and treachery.
Changes and commotion reign.
There are tendencies to rush into dangerous places, but wise counsel of elders and vigilance in contacts with strangers should culminate satisfactorily. Social and domestic affairs move in happy grooves.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to find themselves in a year of sudden change, stirring events and dramatic adventures. While there is an element of danger to be met by sagacity and vigilance, generally the trend is for progress and a gratifying climax, both in business and private interests. It would be well to consult with elders in dubious situations, and to be alert to the wiles and schemes of strangers. Safeguard funds.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, enterprising and ambitious, with splendid mentality and versatility, although prone to go to extremes or resort to high-handed methods. However, it should be naturally gracious and congenial in its private contacts.

crumbs, the cut tomato pulp and the seasoning and place the mixture in the tomatoes. Bake in a covered casserole in a hot (450 degree F.) oven for 10 minutes and then uncover until brown.
Serve from the casserole or remove to a platter and garnish with watercress.

Today's Fashion

A FASHION that is comfortable, attractive and inexpensively achieved is not likely to be a mere seasonal flatter. Which is why the shirtwaist and separate skirt mode, for day or evening,
continues with such success.
Here is this mode at its best in a pretty evening outfit. The blouse is of crisp white organdie with pin tucks and Val lace.
The crushed collar ties in a string bow. The skirt is printed striped crepe in brilliant purple,
green, yellow, red and white,
very full. The wide waistband
buckles in back.

Elsie Ann Brehmer To Be August Bride

Engagement To Joseph F. Bell Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Brehmer of 581 N. Court street announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Elsie Ann, to Mr. Joseph Franklin Bell, son of Mrs. J. M. Bell and the late Mr. Bell of Northridge Road. While the exact date for the wedding has not been chosen, it will be an event of early August.

Miss Brehmer, a teacher in the schools of Circleville, was graduated from Circleville high school in 1935, and attended Ohio university, Athens for two years.

Mr. Bell also a graduate of Circleville high school in 1935 is a senior at Ohio university, Athens, and will finish his course in the next semester.

Annual Picnic Held

Fifty members and guests of the Sorosis Club of Williamsport attended the annual picnic Monday at the home of Miss Carolyn Bohard, of that community. The delightful picnic supper was served at 7 o'clock at tables set on the lawn.

After supper, contests were the diversions of the evening. These were conducted by Mrs. Walter Wright, chairman of the entertainment committee which included Mrs. George LeMay and Miss Virginia Smith. The regular business session of the club was dispensed with for the occasion.

The guests from a distance were Miss Lois Bowman, Ravenna; Miss Vernadine LeMay, Commercial Point; Miss Anne Vlerbome, Lancaster; Mont Voorhes, Columbus; Joseph and George Black, Chillicothe.

Club members and guests from the Williamsport community were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Metzger and children, Katherine Lee and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Luelien and daughter, Mary Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth List and son, Donald, Dr. and Mrs. Wells Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. George LeMay and son, Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wardell and children, Rose Evelyn and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright and children, Norma-gene, Helen, Warren, Kenneth and Joe, Mrs. Fred Tipton and daughters, Alice and Martha, Mrs. Katie West, Miss Twila West, Miss Wanda McNeal, Mrs. Adrian McVey, Mrs. Jay Seaburn, Mrs. Carl Hurst, Mrs. J. W. Meyers, J. F. Varney, Jesse Jones, Newell McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. George Bochard and Miss Bochard.

Mrs. Jay Seaburn of Williamsport will entertain the club when it meets Monday, Aug. 21, for its regular session.

July Wedding Announced

Friends of the Laurelville community will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Shirley Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stevens of Laurelville and Mr. John Fortner of near Laurelville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fortner. The news was revealed at a dinner party and shower Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fortner entertained in honor of the bride in the Fortner home.

The dinner table was decorated with many vari-colored garden flowers. After the lovely shower gifts were opened by the bride, the date of the wedding was revealed by her mother, Mrs. Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. Fortner were married Sunday, July 2, in Russell, Ky., the ceremony being read by the Rev. F. L. Stevens of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid accompanied the couple to Russell and were the only attendants at the wedding.

Guests invited for the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stevens and son, LeRoy, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith, son Donald, daughter Edith Mae, George Griffin, Miss Marguerite De Good, Mrs. Fred Way and family of Marysville; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cotterell, son Earl, Mrs. Harry Weethee, daughters Helen, Juanita, Betty, Rosemary and son, Ralph, Circleville; Mrs. Grace Stevens of Edison; Edward Fortner, Mrs. David Tait, Mrs. Charles Ortman of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fortner and daughter, Diana Lee, and Miss

Wednesday, July 12, at 6:30 o'clock, Miss Mary Virginia Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dettmann, Pennsylvania avenue, Columbus, became the bride of Mr. William Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, 309
Tappan street, Columbus. The Rev.
Frank G. Helme officiated at the ceremony which took place in the Fourth avenue Church of Christ.

Immediately following the service, the new Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a wedding trip to Florida.
After their trip, they will make their home in Columbus where Mr. Smith is associated with the Battelle Research Institute of Ohio State university.

The bridegroom is a nephew of Mrs. John L. Seall of E. Franklin

Planting Surface-root Ferns

To add beauty and interest ferns
can be used in odd shady corners
of the garden where flowers will
cool green covers on the shady side
of the house or garage.

As shown in the illustration certain types of ferns have a slender
branching rootstock which creeps
at or just below the soil surface.

She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. N. E. Gaston, who will spend the next two months visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Dennis, and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Gaston has re-
years.

In planting, do not cover the root-
stocks with several inches of soil,
but place them, as shown, in their natural position with the soil barely covering the rootstocks so that the roots are not smothered. Be sure not to let the rootstock dry
out, however.

Common Polypody, New York
Fern, Resurrection Fern, American Maidenhair, Narrowleaf
Chainfern, Narrow Beechfern,
Narrowleaf Spleenwort, Massachusetts Fern, Winged Beechfern,
Oakfern and Berry Bladderfern.

Both the Polypody and the Resurrection Fern should be lifted
in mats to prevent tearing and
drying of the rootlets.

Add Flavor To Summer Food Fare

HERE ARE some more recipes
of dishes devised to add flavor to Summer fare.

The first offering is a new cold
luncheon. Cold Pineapple Soup is made with two cups water, one-
half cup sugar, pinch of salt, one-
half lemon rind, four tablespoons
quick-cooking tapioca and two cups pineapple juice. Boil water
with sugar, salt and lemon rind;
add tapioca and cook until clear.
Take out rind, mix pineapple juice
with tapioca, and stir well. Place
in glass or earthen jar and let cool. To serve, pour into soup
plates or bouillon cups and garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream with powdered cinnamon
on top.

Cheese potatoes is a good luncheon dish. Peel a pound of potatoes cut into long strips and fry a golden brown in hot fat. Drain
strips on paper and pile in a baking dish. Sprinkle with grated
Parmesan cheese over seasoning
and chopped parsley. Cook in a hot oven about four minutes.
Serve immediately.

Honey Drops go beautifully with a tall cold drink. This spicy bi-squit is made with one cup butter,
one cup honey, three and three-
fourths cups flour, one-half teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, all-
spice and two level teaspoons
soda. Cook honey and butter together for about a minute. Cool.
Sift flour, spices and soda together. Add flour to make a soft dough. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Ham boiled in coffee should delight those who are forever seeking exotic or bizarre foods. Soak
a piece of ham in cold water overnight. Make enough coffee to half cover the ham and boil the ham in it until cooked. Remove ham from liquor. Make a paste
with a little milk, brown sugar
and mustard, and spread this over
the top of the ham. Bake in the oven until brown.

For another unusual dish soak
some large prunes overnight. Next day cook gently. When cold, remove pits and fill cavity with chutney and walnut meats. Roll
a thin piece of bacon around each
prune, fasten with a toothpick
and bake in hot oven about eight minutes. Serve on triangles of fried bread garnished with water-
cress.

Baked Fish in tomato cups is made with six tomatoes, one and one-half cups flaked fish, one-half
cup bread crumbs, tablespoon minced onion, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons
melted fat, one-half teaspoon salt,
one-eighth teaspoon pepper and
one tablespoon chopped parsley.
Cut a thin slice from the top of
each tomato and scoop out the

Vacationists Write Interesting Letters Of Journey Through Central America

Another interesting letter has been received from Circleville vacationists, this one telling of interesting places visited on a southern cruise. The Misses Mar-
Miss Lucille Neuding of E. Main street have collaborated in telling
of the things which have appealed to them most during their travels.

Leaving Circleville Wednesday,
June 28, they went directly to
New York City, and opened their delightful letter with a short account of their days at the fair.

"Before sailing on the S. S. Tal-
amanca, we spent several days in
New York City. On our first night, we viewed the city from the Rockefeller Center observation tower. The next day we visited the fair. The high point of the fair was the General Motors'
Show, depicting the world of tomorrow. We also enjoyed the Billy Rose Aquacade. One evening we were royally entertained
at the Hotel New Yorker by Mrs.
Max Friedman's father and brother,
Benjamin Lichenstein and Leo
Lichenstein.

"On Saturday, July 1, we sailed
from New York Harbor on the
S. S. Talamanca. After two and one half days, we docked at Havana. By special invitation, we viewed the approach to the lovely
harbor from the Captain's Bridge,
seeing the old fort, Morro Castle,
the lovely Malecon Drive and several battleships and cruisers from the United States fleet. That evening we motored sixty-five
miles to see Matanzas Bay, comparable in beauty to the Bay of Naples. The next morning we spent seeing the sights in and around Havana. We swam at the famous Havana Beach in the afternoon and, after a six-hour delay,
were off to Costa Rica on July 5.
"This little-known state has
more points of interest than any
of us had anticipated. We docked

at Port Limon, a torrid tropical city, and left immediately for a five hour trip by trains to San Jose, a delightfully cool mountain capital city. En route, the scenery included thousands of acres of coffee and banana plantations, mountain waterfalls, and several varieties of Palm trees.
In San Jose, we stayed at the well-known Gran Hotel, where a dance was held in honor of the cruise passengers. On Sunday morning came the climax of our trip. Ten of us rather unexpectedly chartered a plane and flew to a new municipality, Parrita, on the Pacific coast. Mr. T. P.

Simmons, chief engineer of the construction work, was a fellow passenger on the Talamanca and had invited us to Parrita as his guests. We spent the morning riding on tram cars through the new United Fruit Company banana plantations and towns less than a year old. We saw hundreds of peons living in crude thatched huts. Their chief activity has been to clear the jungle for the new banana plantations.
On Sunday afternoon, we returned by train to Port Limon and set sail for Panama.

"Colon greeted us with an array of Hindu shops on its Front street, the tourists' paradise. We motored to the Gatun locks, where we watched a large freighter go through. On by rail to Panama City, the capital. From there we drove to Old Panama, ruins of the former capital, and to Balboa, where the United States government officials reside. Our shopping was completed in Colon, where we dined at the famous Bill Gray restaurant. After such a strenuous day, we looked forward to the even tenor of two full days at sea.
"Thursday, July 13, we landed again for a day in Havana, where we finished our shopping and sight-seeing. The boat sails in five minutes, so off to the post."
Dorothy and Margaret Adkins Lucille Neuding.

Today's Fashion

A FASHION that is comfortable, attractive and inexpensively
achieved is not likely to be a mere seasonal flutter. Which is why the shirtwaist and separate
skirt mode, for day or evening,
continues with such success.
Here is this mode at its best in
a pretty evening outfit. The blouse is of crisp white organdy
with pin tucks and Val lace.
The crushed collar ties in a string bow. The skirt is printed striped crepe in brilliant purple,
green, yellow, red and white,
very full. The wide waistband
buckles in back.

DEAN MYSTERY

CLEARED; TABLE

TOP IS BLAMED

CHICAGO, July 18—The "Dizzy Dean Mystery" petered out today behind the widest grin of Ditz could muster and still not stop talking.

The big rightlander of the Chicago Cubs treated the "mystery" of his slashed left arm as the most hilarious incident of his long and hilarious career, denying, between laughs:

(1) That his arm was badly cut.

(2) That his wife conked him with a lamp during a family argument.

(3) That he was "disciplined" by Manager Gabby Hartnett when he was sent home to Chicago from New York. (4) That he had been drinking the evening before he was cut. (5) That he couldn't pitch because of his wound.

Gathering reporters around him,
Ditz elucidated:

"Boys, you'll laugh your heads off. This is the silliest thing I ever heard of. Huh! Look at this scratch on my arm.

"Fight? There wasn't any fight. And I wasn't drinking. It happened right in our New York hotel. We went to our room about 1:15 a. m. We were in bed when the phone rang and, like a dummy, instead of turning on the light first I made a grab for the phone in the dark.

"I knocked over the lamp on the stand between the twin beds. In trying to grab it I scraped my arm against the corner of a glass top on the stand.

"That's all there is to it.

"My brother Paul, who was in town with the Cardinals, was the guy calling. Doggone him."

As to the report Mrs. Dean tossed a lamp, Ditz said:

"She's got better control than that. If she was throwin' it sure would have been a beanball."

Dean's story was partly corroborated by the Cubs' physician, Dr. John F. Davis, who treated the cut. Dr. Davis said the wound was superficial, and not more than a quarter of an inch deep. Asked if the wound could have been caused by a glass table top, the doctor said:

"Yes, that's logical. In fact, the cut is so straight that it must have been done by scraping against an immovable object. It couldn't have been something thrown at him."

"Haw!" hawed Dizzy "Mystery" Dean.

DISTRICT EVENT ATTRACTS MANY TO GOLD CLIFF

Circleville Youths Finish Second And Third In Various Events

CASH PRIZES PRESENTED

About 200 Parents Witness Contests, Enjoy Meeting With Children

Boy Scout troop No. 84, of Ashville, won first prize of $7, Monday afternoon, in the contests staged in connection with the first annual Scout picnic held at Gold Cliff park. The troop chalked up 74 points.

Second prize of $5 was awarded troop No. 158, of Circleville, with a total score of 68 points. Third prize of $3 went to troop No. 107, of Circleville with 52½ points. Seven troops took part in the contests.

Point scores for other troops were Circleville, No. 205, 41; New Holland, 33; Kingston 28½, and Tarlton, 28.

The prizes were awarded on a point basis with troop awards only. Girl Scouts presented demonstrations and conducted games, but did not compete for prizes. The Circleville troop, only Girl Scout unit participating, will use the $10 provided for prizes to purchase troop equipment.

A crowd of about 150 Scouts and Cub Pack members, their parents and prospective Scouts attended the picnic. Free swimming and roller skating were enjoyed. The parents were estimated at 200.

Results Disclosed

The results of the various events were:

Sack race: 1. Dewey Mullins, Kingston; 2. Jack Hedges, Tarlton; and 3. Paul Siegwald, Circleville.

Being a guest of your own program is a unique experience but that's just what Bing Crosby will do when he appears on the Music Hall, Thursday, with Jane Bryan as the other visitor. Bing takes a night off from his vacation when he joins Bob Burns, Pat Friday, the Music Makers, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra for the broadcast over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

BOB CROSBY'S SWING SHOP

Bob Crosby will sing "The Lamp is Low" as a highlight of his Dixieland Swing Shop program tonight at 8:30 over CBS. The orchestra will give the down-south touch to "You're The Cream In My Coffee" and Helen Ward will introduce an original new tune by Bob Haggart, Crosby's bass player, titled "What's New." The Bobcats will play "You're Driving Me Crazy" and Johnny Mercer will dramatize a current event to the tune of "Old Fashioned Love."

ALEC TEMPLETON & CO.

Alec Templeton's version of a single number as played by four different bands will be a highlight of his program tonight in the Fibber McGee 7:30 spot on the NBC-Red network. Templeton will also do his impression of "Deep Purple" as commentator Boake Carter might do it. A swingphony of "Limehouse Blues" and a version of "Heigh Ho" from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs will also be featured. Edna Odell will sing Johnny Mercer's "And the Angels Sing" and "This Can't Be Love." Billy Mills and his orchestra will offer a medley of Rogers and Hart tunes including "Girl Friend" and "Blue Room." Templeton's closing contribution will be an impression of an Italian tenor singing "Ave Maria" via short wave from Rome.

MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY

When the boss racketeer attempts to make New York laundrymen pay protection to the syndicate, Mr. District Attorney steps in and smashes the gang. Played by Raymond Edward Johnson, Mr. District Attorney will be heard tonight at 9 over the NBC-Red network with a supporting cast which includes Leonard Doyle, Maurice Franklin, Frank Reddick, Paul Stewart, Carl Eastman, Roger DeKoven and Eleanor Silver.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Village council "hitting the brass tacks hard now" and "good boys more power to them" several have already said since the council meeting Monday evening. A real Community house with all the trimmings, is to be a part of Ashville Community Park. This was all under favorable discussion at the council session. Streets came in for their share of improvement, too. Bills all get paid. Sidewalks will get theirs in turn.

The school board, Ashville-Harrison Joint was in session at school office Monday evening and other than paying bills decided on the school opening dates as of Tuesday following Labor Day. So Tuesday, September 5, the school kiddies will be on the move toward another school year.

Dan Boone, up to date, has received orders for plans of his new kind of hog house from 18 different states of the U. S. A. He has had a full sized one constructed and will be put into use and actual test upon a Darbyville territory farm.

Stephen Silbaugh, young son of Harold and Mrs. Silbaugh is home and getting along fine after a tonsil removal operation. . . . Last Friday's hard-luck day wounded ones, Elmer Mallory and Floyd Ptebhone, are doing their very best toward getting better Petibhone being back to work on a light weight job at Walnut power plant. . . . Friday is not an open date as we named it in yesterday's news, it being taken by a special sales tax agent who is here at the Ashville Bank to assist tax stamp vendors.

A Madison member of the board of education at "headquarters" Monday said that all the furnishings of their newly rebuilt school building is in and includes an indirect lighting system of 750-watt light power and the only one in a rural school in the county—Madison of course. And "Wal" Plam as one of the bunch with this Madison member, said that he was "quite sure" that when he was a youngster at school up-in that "best township", all the old teachers said that Madison Rural Hi school was the first one in all the state. Monroe Brobst and Adam Knepper were the two, he said, to who most credit is due for instituting that first school. Elmer Rayman was the first superintendent, yet living, his home in Cleveland. The reunion, maybe tomorrow.

THE TRAP WE ARE IN

William Hard has an excellent article in the Forum magazine. Senator Byrd has reproduced it in the Congressional Record of June 26th. It deserves a wide reading.

Mr. Hard shows how a Chamber of Commerce could achieve immortality by writing a Congressman or Senator: "We will pave the streets in our town ourselves. Or they will remain unpaved. What we want is for the United States Government to start going solvent and at once."

Every paper in the nation would carry that story. It would rock the Capitol.

Mr. Hard has touched a sore spot. This is one reason business men are made to look ridiculous. They pass resolutions for a balanced budget, for national solvency, for lowered taxes, then jump on the gravy boat every time it whistles for Washington. Every Congressman understands the situation perfectly.

F. D. R. understands it also. He has, as is plain, abandoned even lip service to fiscal principles.

PETTENGILL ples he once held. He once asked the voters to make him their President on his recommendation that the Constitution should require the Executive to annually submit a balanced budget.

But now he twits Congress and business men for even suggesting economy. He got a big laugh out of the Retailers National Forum by telling them of the "local Chamber of Commerce yelling its head off to have projects built with Federal assistance."

The President scores with the bleachers when he goes to the plate swinging that bat. Maybe it is one reason the United States Chamber of Commerce in its big building across Jackson Square has had so little influence. It is here that Chambers of Commerce have a glass jaw. They preach what they don't practice and get the political razzberry.

I quite agree with Mr. Hard that straight thinking on economy must begin at home. I hope to live to see some Chamber of Commerce somewhere, some time, that will adopt his suggestion and pass a resolution not only against "the road toward bankruptcy," but quoting Mr. Roosevelt, but against any more Federal projects in its home town! It would make history. And might do good. Everyone agrees that we can't proceed ten years more down this bankrupt road. Millions think we can't go on 4 years more.

As Jefferson said "We must make our selection between economy and liberty or profusion and servitude"; also, "I consider the extravagance which has seized the country as a more painful evil than Toryism was during the war. It is the moreso as the example is set by the best and most amiable characters among us!"

Nevertheless a word must be said for the Chambers of Commerce. They and we and all of us are caught in a trap which it is exceedingly unfair in Mr. Roosevelt to pretend does not exist. The trap is that legislation sponsored by him puts terrific pressure on business men to do what he now delights to impale before the thoughtless. If "we don't get ours" the other town will, and we must then pay taxes for the other town's swimming pool, dog pound, or mosquito census.

This is the dilemma in which Mr. Roosevelt has placed the nation. All 50-50 Federal grants or loans or W.P.A. or P.W.A. projects put taxpayers everywhere under pressure to "get theirs" They feel, and they would be less

COUNTY RELIEF FUND APPROVED BY COMMISSION

County commissioners voted Monday afternoon to issue a note for $13,357 for county relief purposes to comply with new relief regulations.

This amount, the commissioners explained, represents 80 percent of the anticipated collection to March 1, 1940 on public utility, beer, malt and admission taxes. The state will provide 75 percent of the amount of the note for matching purposes.

Commissioners believe the amount of the note will provide sufficient funds for the county's share of relief expenses until next March 1.

A contract with the city for the county relief administration to care for city clients with the city sharing its portion of the expense was approved by the commissioners Monday.

Get your Congressman to vote to give the old home town, or state, its choice of Federal projects or Federal cash. Then watch Mr. Roosevelt lose his enthusiasm for Federal "investments." He could dangle no more bridges before voters to purge Senators who are Senators.

ASHVILLE BOY SCOUT TROOP WINS COMPETITION AT COUNTY OUTING

DISTRICT EVENT ATTRACTS MANY TO GOLD CLIFF

Circleville Youths Finish Second And Third In Various Events

About 200 Parents Witness Contests, Enjoy Meeting With Children

Boy Scout troop No. 84, of Ashville, won first prize of $7, Monday afternoon, in the contests staged in connection with the first annual Scout picnic held at Gold Cliff park. The troop chalked up 74 points.

Second prize of $5 was awarded troop No. 158, of Circleville, with a total score of 68 points. Third prize of $3 went to troop No. 107, of Circleville with 52½ points. Seven troops took part in the contests.

Point scores for other troops were Circleville, No. 205, 41; New Holland, 33; Kingston 28½, and Tarlton, 28.

The prizes were awarded on a point basis with troop awards only. Girl Scouts presented demonstrations and conducted games, but did not compete for prizes. The Circleville troop, only Girl Scout unit participating, will use the $10 provided for prizes to purchase troop equipment.

A crowd of about 150 Scouts and Cub Pack members, their parents and prospective Scouts attended the picnic. Free swimming and roller skating were enjoyed. The parents were estimated at 200.

Scouts were permitted to enter in only one contest.

BING CROSBY'S GUESTS

Being a guest of your own program is a unique experience but that's just what Bing Crosby will do when he appears on the Music Hall, Thursday, with Jane Bryan as the other visitor. Bing takes a night off from his vacation when he joins Bob Burns, Pat Friday, the Music Makers, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra for the broadcast over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

Crosby will return to Hollywood after the Eastern jaunt to see his horses race in Boston. He sings "Go Fly a Kite," "Still the Bluebird Sings," "A man and His Dream," and "An Apple for the Teacher," all from his new movie, "The Star Maker." For his memorable song he does, "In My Merry Oldsmobile."

BOB CROSBY'S SWING SHOP

Bob Crosby will sing "The Lamp is Low" as a highlight of his Dixieland Swing Shop program tonight at 8:30 over CBS. The orchestra will give the down-south touch to "You're the Cream in My Coffee" and Helen Ward will introduce an original new tune by Bob Haggart, Crosby's bass player, titled "What's New." The Bobcats will play "You're Driving Me Crazy" and Johnny Mercer will dramatize a current event to the tune of "Old Fashioned Love."

ALEC TEMPLETON & CO.

Alec Templeton's version of a single number as played by four different bands will be a highlight of his program tonight in the Fibber McGee 7:30 spot on the NBC-Red network. Templeton will also do his impression of "Deep Purple" as commentator Boake Carter might do it. A swingphony of "Limehouse Blues" and a version of "Heigh Ho" from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs will also be featured. Edna Odell will sing Johnny Mercer's "And the Angels Sing" and "This Can't Be Love." Billy Mills and his orchestra will offer a medley of Rogers and Hart tunes including "Girl Friend" and "Blue Room." Templeton's closing contribution will be an impression of an Italian tenor singing "Ave Maria" via short wave from Rome.

MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY

When the boss racketeer attempts to make New York laundrymen pay protection to the syndicate, Mr. District Attorney steps in and smashes the gang. Played by Raymond Edward Johnson, Mr. District Attorney will be heard tonight at 9 over the NBC-Red network with a supporting cast which includes Leonard Doyle, Maurice Franklin, Frank Reddick, Paul Stewart, Carl Eastman, Roger DeKoven and Eleanor Silver.

Village council "hitting the brass tacks hard now" and "good boys more power to them" several have already said since the council meeting Monday evening. A real community house with all the trimmings, is to be a part of Ashville Community Park. This was all under favorable discussion at the council session. Streets came in for their share of improvement, too. Bills all get paid. Sidewalks will get theirs in turn.

The school board, Ashville-Harrison Joint was in session at school office Monday evening and other than paying bills decided on the school opening dates as of Tuesday following Labor Day. So Tuesday, September 5, the school kiddies will be on the move toward another school year.

Dan Boone, up to date, has received orders for plans of his new kind of hog house from 18 different states of the U. S. A. He has had a full sized one constructed and will be put into use and actual test upon a Darbyville territory farm.

Stephen Silbaugh, young son of Harold and Mrs. Silbaugh is home and getting along fine after a tonsil removal operation. . . . Last Friday's hard-luck day wounded ones, Elmer Mallery and Floyd Pettibone, are doing their very best toward getting better Pettibone being back to work on a light weight job at Walnut power plant. . . . Friday is not an open date as we named it in yesterday's news, it being taken by a special sales tax agent who is here at the Ashville Bank to assist tax stamp vendors.

A Madison member of the board of education at "headquarters" Monday said that all the furnishings of their newly rebuilt school building is in and includes an indirect lighting system of 750-watt light power and the only one in a rural school in the county—Madison of course. And "Wal" Plum as one of the bunch with this Madison member, said that he was "quite sure" that when he was a youngster at school up in that "best township", all the old teachers said that Madison Rural Hi school was the first one in all the state. Monroe Brobst and Adam Knepper were the two, he said, to who most credit is due for instituting that first school. Elmer Rayman was the first superintendent, yet living, his home in Cleveland. The reunion, maybe tomorrow.
